The Decline and Fall of Nazi Germany and Imperial Japan Hans Dollinger, 1995 The Decline and Fall of Nazi Germany and Imperial Japan Hans Dollinger, 1965 The Decline and Fall of Nazi Germany and Imperial Japan Mark H. Podwal, 1982 The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire Edward Gibbon, 1872 Are We All Nazis? Hans Askenasy, 1978 This book is based on the famous experiments conducted by Yale psychologist Stanley Milgram which concluded that given an adjusted controlled environment most of us will act in a manner at total odds with our normal behavior patterns Dr Hans Askenasy agrees with these findings and presents with compelling logic and scholarship a most disquieting view that the Nazis who carried out the murder of six million Jews were neither sadists madmen or monsters Most of us would like to think they were for then the responsibility for the atrocities they committed could be placed upon a special class of criminals or lunatics essentially different from the rest of us Auschwitz could not we like to believe have happened here yet it is psychologically easy to ignore responsibility when one is only an intermediate link in a chain of evil The author concludes that the main cause of large scale destructiveness is not individual criminality but social abnormality a collective madness which we do not fully understand and with which we have not yet come to terms From publisher description The Decline and Fall of Nazi Germany and Imperial Japan: a Pictorial History of the Final Days of World War II. Hans Dollinger, 1965 The Jewish Factor in the Relations Between Nazi Germany and the Soviet Union, 1933-1941 Yosef Govrin, 2009 Nazi Germany's foreign policy towards the Soviet Union was carried out in accordance with ideological and political objectives These were defined and planned well in advance with a view to a final confrontation for the domination of Europe This policy regarded Jewish Bolshevism as the main obstacle to securing victory in the coming confrontation hence its rise and fall constituted a yard stick in the formulation of Germany's relationship with the Soviet Union Soviet foreign policy towards Nazi Germany was much more pragmatic Soviet diplomatic activity was aimed at thwarting the German threat to Soviet territorial integrity and its political regime By putting ideological principles to one side belittling the danger of Nazi anti Semitic policy for Jews themselves and for free Europe in its entirety and dismissing Jews from senior positions in the Soviet hierarchy they hoped to stave off the conflict From both the German and the Soviet perspective the Jewish factor was significant The purpose of this book is to assess its place and influence upon the mutual relations between the two countries in the years 1933 1941 The book was originally published in Hebrew by the Magnes Press of the Hebrew University Jerusalem in 1986 This edition includes additional material published in Russia subsequently and newly revealed Soviet archival sources which were unavailable at the time the Hebrew edition went to press The Decline and Fall of Nazi Germany and Imperial Japan Hans Dollinger, 1960 Access to History: Democracy and Nazism: Germany 1918-45 for AQA Geoff Layton, 2015-07-31 Exam Board AQA Edexcel OCR WJEC Level A level Subject History First Teaching September 2015 First Exam June 2016 Give your students the best chance of success with this tried
