Debate Argumentation Systems Approach Advocacy:

Debate and Argument Michael Pfau, David Allen Thomas, Walter Ulrich, 1987-01 Debate and Argument Michael W. Pfau, 1987-01-01 Arguments and Arguing Thomas A. Hollihan, Kevin T. Baaske, 2022-05-06 Arguing is a fundamental human activity it is a process of making sense of the world and negotiating understandings with others Arguing can be and often is healthy for both relationships and societies The values of the community are shaped through people sharing their opinions offering reasons in support of their beliefs and deliberating Hollihan and Baaske present techniques for effective analysis logical reasoning and socially constructive argumentation They illustrate their discussions of theory and practice with multiple engaging examples The book focuses on narrative argument as a story backed by evidence to evaluate courses of action or to resolve conflicts A chapter on visual argumentation highlights the power of visual elements in arguments Effective arguing requires a sensitivity to the demands of different argumentative contexts Readers will become familiar with the elements of argument essential for politics the law debate business and relationships Narrative arguments are rational arguments Learning about the narrative reasoning process helps us tell more convincing credible and compassionate stories and to become better critics of the stories we hear Argumentation and Advocacy, 1999 Argumentation and Debate Austin J. Freeley, David L. Steinberg, 2000 This text presents a clear and concise explanation of argumentation and provides models for good argumentation particularly as it applies to academic debate Strategic Debate, Student Edition McGraw-Hill, 1995-01-01 Strategic Debate is designed for beginning through intermediate debaters The text engages students intellectually analytically and verbally and contains thorough coverage of fundamentals affirmative and negative cases and recent trends in competitive presentation Navigating Opportunity Allan D. Loudon, 2010 Papers presented at the National Developmental Debate Conference held June 5 7 2009 at Wake Forest University Allan D Loudon conference director The Journal of the American Forensic Association American Forensic Association, 1986 A Research Agenda for Environmental Crime and the Law Ricardo Pereira, Teresa Fajardo, 2025-06-09 This Research Agenda evaluates the current state of scholarship in the field of environmental crime and law identifying priority areas and future trends in academic research It explores the evolution of the law accounting for current and new global environmental threats and examining ontological questions around environmental law enforcement Leading experts provide insight into research methodologies and topical themes such as transnational corporate crimes ecocide artificial intelligence biodiversity crime and climate justice Non-Policy Debating David M. Berube, 1993-12-10 This work examines and hypothesizes on the theory and practice of non policy debating Rather than debating about what is right just fair or true non policy debating is about propositions of facts quasi facts and values The work is designed from and for competitive debating within popular formats currently used in para and co curricular settings in both secondary and higher education Fashioned for those using competitive debating as a laboratory Non Policy Debating is a guide for instructors and competitors in non policy debating It

Hunt,Constance Gordon,Mohan Jyoti Dutta,2022-11-10 Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1971 Attack Politics Michael Pfau,Henry C. Kenski,1990 In a timely contribution to the political communication and U S politics literature Pfau and Kenski trace the nature and growth of political attack messages through the 1988 election As the authors note at the outset political attack messages have grown more and more popular in contemporary political advertising in large part because research indicates that attack messages are extremely effective in influencing voters The authors examine the various attack strategies both generally and as applied in specific campaigns and then focus on responses to political attacks Particular attention is given to the resistance strategy of inoculation which the authors argue is one of the few viable strategic defenses available to candidates who find themselves under attack In addition to reviewing early laboratory research on inoculation the authors present the results of two large experimental field studies one involving a Senate campaign in 1986 the other the 1988 presidential campaign which represent the first tests of inoculation in a political campaign context Following an overview of the historical role played by attack messages in American politics the authors examine the rapid growth of attack politics during the Reagan era culminating in the 1988 election They demonstrate the inadequacies of existing and proposed options for limiting the use of attack messages in political campaigns arguing that the judiciary's support for unfettered political expression combined with the perception among campaign professionals that attack strategies are an important and effective option mitigate against any decrease in their use. The authors also point out the inadequacies inherent in present defenses against attack messages: the preemptive attack, the refutation strategy, and the counterattack strategy. Turning to a consideration of the inoculation message strategy, Pfau and Kenski present an extended discussion of the results of the 1986 and 1988 field studies. The findings indicate that inoculation messages deflect the persuasiveness of subsequent attack messages that might be launched by an opponent during a campaign, thereby reducing the likelihood that political attacks will influence either receiver attitudes about candidates or actual receiver votes. Both political scientists and political campaign professionals will find Attack Politics enlightening and provocative reading.
