Decisive Writerie:

Buried Alone. A story. By a new writer [i.e. Charles W. Wood]., 1869      Kant's Legacy Predrag Cicovacki, 2001 The late Lewis White Beck Professor of Philosophy at the University of Rochester for many years was one of the world's leading Kant scholars Beck considered the most significant element of Kant's rich complex and controversial legacy to be the ultimate philosophical question What is Man Kant's answer that humans are creators is ambiguous On the one hand it dignifies humans by elevating them above blind mechanical forces of nature But it also imposes difficult burdens including the task of providing a unitary worldview and an immanently grounded system of values and norms The contributors to this volume under Beck's influence concur that this theme is of central importance for the proper understanding and evaluation of Kant's legacy The papers address issues concerning creativity in all aspects of human experience from knowledge of the external world to self knowledge from moral to religious dilemmas from judgments of taste to the art of living with a constant awareness of the limitations as well as the possibilities of such creativity Predrag Cicovacki is Associate Professor of Philosophy College of the Holy Cross      Macphail's Edinburgh ecclesiastical journal and literary review, 1853      A Vindication of a Sermon, entitled, Inoculation an Indefensible Practice. In which Dr. Kirkpatrick's arguments in favour of the operation [in "The Analysis of Inoculation"], together with his and a certain letter-writer's [i.e. N. Bolaine's] objections to the sermon are distinctly consider'd and reply'd to, etc Theodore DELAFAYE, 1754      The Bookman, 1895      Travels in the Colonies in 1773-1775 Described in the Letters of William Mylne William Mylne, 2021-10-15 Travels in the Colonies in 1773-1775 Described in the Letters of William Mylne contains a narrative of the two years that Scottish architect and engineer William Mylne spent in the American colonies The letters included in this volume written from Mylne's own pen to his sister Anne and brother Robert document Mylne's journeys from his home in Edinburgh to the American colonies in South Carolina Georgia Charlestown and New York The Georgia Open History Library has been made possible in part by a major grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities Democracy demands wisdom Any views findings conclusions or recommendations expressed in this collection do not necessarily represent those of the National Endowment for the Humanities      Canonical Texts Rein Fernhout, 1994 This book introduces a new approach to the comparative study of sacred texts here the Christian Bible the Islamic Koran the Hindu Veda and the Buddhist Tipiaka The author demonstrates that in spite of their great differences these works show a fundamental analogy Considered as canonical within their own religious context each text possesses absolute authority in comparison with other authoritative texts from their respective religious traditions This fundamental analogy allows one to describe the growth and history of these canons step by step as a process that takes place in analogous phases that are clearly distinguishable The author follows a strictly phenomenological method he tries to understand the development of these canons in terms of a potential that lies within the phenomena themselves i.e. the texts while refraining in any way from assessing their claim to absolute authority In part I the author describes the development from the revelation of the texts to a climax with respect to reflection on the canons This climax has been reached in all four cases Part II investigates the crisis that these canons are currently undergoing as a consequence of the modern intellectual climate Can we expect that this crisis will be overcome by the canons And if so will they be in a position of mutual exclusion or will they form a sort of unity such as for example the Old and New Testament in the Christian Bible Finally the author traces what the religions themselves have postulated about the future of their respective canons The result is surprising the current crisis is only faint reflection of what according to age old predictions awaits the canons in the future

Differentia ,1994     The Scots Observer ,1890     Studies in Ancient Hebrew Semantics T. Muraoka,1995 This publication is a collection of studies devoted to various aspects of the semantics and lexicography of Ancient Hebrew All contributions except the last two were originally delivered as papers to a symposium held in July 1994 at Leiden University The symposium rounded off a three year long international network funded by the European Science Foundation under the leadership of Prof Dr J Hoftijzer from whose contribution to the present volume one may gain an insight into the conception and philosophy of the research project and its history so far This volume will in addition to some earlier publications which have appeared in the Zeitschrift für Althebraistik give the reader some idea of the general thinking which has assisted the authors in the formulation of their approach to the task lying before them It ought to be emphasised however that all the studies appearing in this volume ought to be of interest to any Hebraist and Old Testament scholar for they are hardly in house publications but address some important aspects of the Ancient Hebrew semantics and lexicography     The Field of Yiddish ,1954     Themelios ,1986     The Journal of Medieval and Renaissance Studies ,1973     Annual Burns Chronicle and Club Directory ,1935     The Writing on the Wall Karin Meissenburg,1987     JPRS Report ,1992     Essays in Russian Literature; the Conservative View: Leontiev, Rozanov, Shestov Константин Леонтьев,1968     The Soviet Rural Community James R.
