Scott, David Dodwell, 1997 Hong Kong's vibrant economic environment attracts business from all over the globe. Its dynamism and competitiveness have long been recognized but not well understood. What does the future hold for the world's quintessential business city? The Organization and Management of Construction D. A. Langford, Arkady Retik, 1996 The proceedings of the CIB W65 Symposium on the Organization and Management of Construction conference are presented here and in the companion volumes as state of the art papers documenting research and innovative practice in the field of construction. The volumes cover four broad themes: business management, project management, risk management, IT development and applications. Each volume is organized to provide easy reference so that the practitioner can speedily extract up to date information and knowledge about the global construction industry. Managing the Construction Enterprise Volume One Covers the firm and its business environment, markets and marketing, human resource management, strategic planning and quality management. Managing the Construction Project Volume Two focuses upon productivity, procurement, international projects and human issues in relation to management performance of construction organisations. Managing Risk Volume Two incorporates discussion of risk away from regulation by government and those safety risks inherent in the construction process. Managing Construction Information Volume Three published in conjunction with Construct IT Centre of Excellence incorporates material on information systems and methods, application of IT to the design and construction processes and how IT theory and applications are best transmitted to students and practitioners. The work represents a collation of wide ranging ideas and theory about construction and how research has contributed to the development of the industry on a global application of research to the problems of the construction industry. Critical Discourse and Corpus Approaches to Systemic Functional Grammar Chenguang Chang, Josef Schmied, Matthias Hofmann, 2021-03-18 The present volume draws on the experience of the Workshop held in Germany in late 2018 to combine the specialisations of the two linguistic research teams of the two partner universities: Sun Yat-sen University in China and Chemnitz University of Technology in Germany. It combines more theoretical approaches by experienced scholars and case studies by young researchers on topics and texts on current Chinese developments. The contributions can also serve as a general model for open and critical international and intercultural academic discourse. Hong Kong Industrialist, 2006 The Chinese Business Environment Fuming Jiang, Bruce William Stening, 2006 This unique annotated bibliography contains the most important studies of the Chinese business environment comprising almost 1000 references to articles published in English language journals in the past fifteen years or so. The editors have sought to focus on those writings that deal fairly directly with the impact of the Chinese business environment on foreign firms doing business in China. Each work is fully referenced in a standard format, has a brief description of its subject matter and has been given a classification code ensuring quick and easy identification of all articles on any given subject. The indexes include a joint author index and a subject classification index which make the bibliography easily navigable and usable. There is also an introduction by the editors explaining the rationale behind the book and the selection criteria along with a description of how it may be used most efficiently This book will serve as an invaluable reference book for scholars and researchers of Asian studies China most particularly and international business Senior executives and middle level managers of multinational corporations who have been operating in or who wish to do business in and with China would also find this a useful and rich source of information Signal ,1993
