Crafting Tradition:

Crafting Tradition Michael Chibnik, 2010-01-01 Since the mid 1980s whimsical brightly colored wood carvings from the Mexican state of Oaxaca have found their way into gift shops and private homes across the United States and Europe as Western consumers seek to connect with the authenticity and tradition represented by indigenous folk arts Ironically however the Oaxacan wood carvings are not a traditional folk art Invented in the mid twentieth century by non Indian Mexican artisans for the tourist market their appeal flows as much from intercultural miscommunication as from their intrinsic artistic merit In this beautifully illustrated book Michael Chibnik offers the first in depth look at the international trade in Oaxacan wood carvings including their history production marketing and cultural representations Drawing on interviews he conducted in the carving communities and among wholesalers retailers and consumers he follows the entire production and consumption cycle from the harvesting of copal wood to the final purchase of the finished piece Along the way he describes how and why this invented tradition has been promoted as a Zapotec Indian craft and explores its similarities with other local crafts with longer histories He also fully discusses the effects on local communities of participating in the global market concluding that the trade in Oaxacan wood carvings is an almost paradigmatic case study of globalization

Made in Mexico W. Warner Wood, 2008-07-17 Made in Mexico introduces us to the people places and ideas that create Zapotec textiles and give them meaning From Oaxaca where guides escort tourists to weavers homes and then to the shops and markets where weavings are sold to the galleries and stores of the American Southwest where textiles are displayed and purchased as home decor or ethnic artwork W Warner Wood s ethnographic account crosses the border in both directions to describe how the international market for Native American art shapes weavers design choices Everyone involved in this enterprise draws on images of rustic authenticity and indigenous tradition connecting the Mexican nation to its pre Hispanic past despite the fact that Zapotec textiles are commodities through and through Wood examines the production and consumption of Zapotec textiles through the social practices that give them value
