Delivering the Truth Lorin Lakasing, 2025-10-21 Mothers and babies suffering staff at breaking point huge disparities in standards of care we've all seen the headlines about the crisis in NHS maternity care but it seems they just keep coming. Have you ever thought there's more to it all than meets the eye? For more than two decades the NHS maternity service has been the focus of repeated scandals. Time and time again independent investigations have exposed failures made recommendations and promised change. Yet things don't improve. In this powerful revealing account Lorin Lakasing draws on her 30 year experience of clinical practice in maternity to give an insider's view of the current worrying situation and its development. She reveals the reasons why major stakeholders in this vital service have inadvertently been encouraged to pursue different agendas and how that has made effective collaborative working towards optimal clinical outcomes almost impossible. A safe and effective NHS maternity service is in everyone's best interests. But for this to happen real change is needed now. This book is an informed fresh and hopeful perspective on how we can make maternity care better for all.

Busting Bureaucracy to Reclaim Our Schools Stephen B. Lawton, Joseph Freedman, Heather-jane Robertson, Institute for Research on Public Policy, 1995. In this book the author argues that the bureaucratization of schooling has interfered with the process of education. The costs complexity and rigidity of the educational edifice leaves it unresponsive to parental concerns and reluctant to measure its own inadequacies such as illiteracy and high dropout rates among students. The author identifies two conceptual bases for action to address this problem: public choice theory and agency theory. The issue of identity in its relation to education and then makes the case for charter schools in Canada stressing definitions of community parental rights and the need to combat bureaucratic tendencies. Two discussants respond to the author's analysis: one amplifying his call for charter schools and the other arguing that the basis for demanding reform is less clear than the author claims.

The $3 Trillion Prize for Busting Bureaucracy (and How to Claim It). Gary Hamel, 2016. Around the world productivity growth has stalled out. While some hope that a second machine age will reverse the slump we think that wringing bureaucracy out of the economy offers a more promising and less speculative route to boosting productivity. By our calculations busting bureaucracy would add 3 trillion to economic growth in the US alone. Dismantling bureaucracy won't be easy but it has to happen: bureaucracy must die. This paper provides a detailed blueprint for abolishing the bureaucracy tax in organizations and everywhere else.
