Hraba, Elmer Schwieder

Buxton Work And Racial Equality In A Coal Mining Town:

Buxton Dorothy Schwieder, Joseph Hraba, Elmer Schwieder, 2003-10 From 1900 until the early 1920s an unusual community existed in America's heartland Buxton Iowa Originally established by the Consolidation Coal Company Buxton was the largest unincorporated coal mining community in Iowa What made Buxton unique however is the fact that the majority of its 5 000 residents were African Americans a highly unusual racial composition for a state which was over 90 percent white At a time when both southern and northern blacks were disadvantaged and oppressed blacks in Buxton enjoyed true racial integration steady employment above average wages decent housing and minimal discrimination For such reasons Buxton was commonly known as the black man's utopia in Iowa Containing documentary evidence including newspapers census records photographs and state mining reports along with interviews of 75 former residents Buxton Work and Racial Equality in a Coal Mining Community originally published in 1987 and winner of the 1988 Benjamin Shambaugh Award explored the Buxton experience from a variety of perspectives The authors an American historian a family sociologist and a race relations sociologist provided a truly interdisciplinary history of one Iowa's most unique communities Now eighty years after the town's demise and fifteen years after Buxton's original publication the history of this Iowa town remains a compelling story that continues to capture people's imaginations In Buxton A Black Utopia in the Heartland the authors offer further reflections upon their original study and the many former Buxton residents who shared their memories In the new essay A Buxton Perspective issues such as social class and the town's continuing legacy are addressed The voices captured in Buxton although recorded over twenty years ago still resonate with exuberance affection and poignancy this expanded edition will bring their amazing stories back to the forefront of Iowa and American history

Buxton Dorothy Schwieder, Joseph Hraba, Elmer Schwieder, Relics of Modernity Andrew F. Wood, 2025-06-12 This collection of essays expands upon an emerging topic within and beyond the field of communication studies that challenges students and scholars of the built environment to peer beyond the somewhat typical collection of monuments museums and memories often found in essays related to space and place to consider the role of ruins as lenses upon modernity These locales which include economic ghost towns industrial relics prison sites and other places associated with so called dark tourism generally conjure feelings of melancholy connotations of failure While their assemblages of moldy floors waterlogged walls shattered windows and sagging roofs do not make for traditional tourist snapshots ruins possess a potential to inspire awe an awareness of the tenuous nature of modern confidence a reverence for the passing of things In their inquiry and investigation one may encounter oddly sublime traces and fragments of the contemporary age Seeking to better understand the rhetoric and performances of ruins contributors to this book have crafted chapters that are theoretically sophisticated and vividly authored The resulting collection of nine essays surveys ruins within and beyond the United States to examine a unique and unexpected constellation of ideas related to authenticity identity memory representation and power

Black in the Middle

Terrion L. Williamson, 2020-09-01 A timely compelling collection that allows predominantly Black Midwesterners to reclaim their home histories and future Jen Cox Chicago Review of Books Black Americans have been among the hardest hit by the rapid deindustrialization and accompanying economic decline that have become so synonymous with the Midwest Since the 2016 election many traditional media outlets have renewed attention on the conditions of Middle America but the national discourse continues to marginalize the Black people who live there Black in the Middle brings the voices of Black Midwesterners front and center Filled with compelling personal narratives thought provoking art and searing commentaries this anthology explores the various meanings and experiences of blackness throughout the Rust Belt the Midwest and the Great Plains Bringing together people from major metropolitan centers like Detroit and Chicago as well as smaller cities and rural areas where the lives of Black residents have too often gone unacknowledged this collection is a much needed corrective to the narrative of the region Ambitious and eclectic with African American humanity on display Joseph P Williams Minneapolis Star Tribune The honesty in the essays the emergency in the poetry and the intensity of the photographs and paintings help to sharpen the edge of what it means to be Black in the middle of anything which is the sum of our fears and the hope that manifests itself in our dreams Jason Vasser Elong St Louis Post Dispatch Timely and evocative By calling forth the full range of the Black Midwestern experience this bracing anthology offers crucial insights into why the region is the epicenter of current protests against police brutality and racial injustice Publishers Weekly Iowa History Reader Marvin Bergman, 2008-03-15 In 1978 historian Joseph Wall wrote that Iowa was still seeking to assert its own identity It has no real center where the elite of either power wealth or culture may congregate Iowa in short is middle America In this collection of well written and accessible essays originally published in 1996 seventeen of the Hawkeye State s most accomplished historians reflect upon the dramatic and not so dramatic shifts in the middle land s history in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Marvin Bergman has drawn upon his years of editing the Annals of Iowa to gather contributors who cross disciplines model the craft of writing a historical essay cover more than one significant topic and above all interpret history rather than recite it In his preface to this new printing he calls attention to publications that begin to fill the gaps noted in the 1996 edition Rather than survey the basic facts the essayists engage readers in the actual making of Iowa s history by trying to understand the meaning of its past By providing comprehensive accounts of topics in Iowa history that embrace the broader historiographical issues in American history such as the nature of Progressivism and Populism the debate over whether women s expanded roles in wartime carried over to postwar periods and the place of quantification in history the essayists contribute substantially to debates at the national level at the same time that they interpret Iowa s distinctive culture Coal, Class, and Color Joe William Trotter, 1990 American Studies Jack Salzman, 1990-05-25 This volume supplements the acclaimed three volume set published in 1986 and consists of an annotated listing of American Studies monographs published between 1984 and 1988 There are more than 6 000 descriptive entries in a wide range of categories anthropology and folklore art and architecture history literature music political science popular culture psychology religion science and technology and sociology

American Coal Mary Jane Appel, Douglas Brinkley, 2024-04-09 In 1946 the Truman administration made a promise to striking coal miners as part of a deal to resume work the government would sponsor a survey of health and labor conditions in mining camps One of the researchers dispatched to scores of sites nationwide was photographer Russell Lee Lee had made his name during the Depression when alongside Dorothea Lange and Walker Evans Lee used his camera to expose the wages of poverty and Jim Crow Now he trained his lens on miners and their families to show their impact on the nation's first wave of postwar growth This collection of photographs featured at the National Archives and Record Administration in an exhibition titled Power Light includes Lee's original detailed captions as well as commentary from Lee's biographer Mary Jane Appel and historian Douglas Brinkley Together they illuminate Lee's career and his involvement with the survey the history of labor disputes between the United Mine Workers Association and mine operators in the 1940s and capture the vitality and resourcefulness of the diverse subjects miners of many races and national origins their wives and their children at work and at play at church and in beauty pageants in moments of joy struggle and vivid banality Ultimately Lee's strikingly human photographs inspired rural hospital construction and mine safety improvements for the people whose work was so critical to the functioning of the country making do in often terrible conditions

The Journal of African American History, 2002 Annals of Iowa, 2006 The Black Press in the Middle West, 1865-1985 Henry Lewis Suggs, 1996 This is the first comprehensive examination of the Black press in the Middle West It rewrites the history of the Middle West and proves that Blacks were not only present but that they helped to shape the history character and political agenda of the region United States History James Warren Oberly, 1995 Journal of the Iowa Archeological Society Iowa Archeological Society, 2000 Human Services in the Rural Environment, 1992

Urban Workers in the Agricultural Middle West, 1856-1893 Nellie W. Kremenak, 1995 The Rural Midwest Since World War II Joseph Leslie Anderson, 2014 J L Anderson seeks to change the belief that the Midwest lacks the kind of geographic coherence historical issues and cultural touchstones that have informed regional identity in the American South West and Northeast The goal of this illuminating volume is to demonstrate uniqueness in a region that has always been amorphous and is increasingly so Midwesterners are a dynamic people who shaped the physical and social landscapes of the great midsection of the nation and they are presented as such in this volume that offers a general yet informed overview of the region after World War II The contributors most of whom are Midwesterners by birth or residence seek to better understand a particular piece of rural America a place too often caricatured misunderstood and ignored However the rural landscape has experienced agricultural diversity and major shifts in land use Farmers in the region have successfully raised new commodities from dairy and cherries to mint and sugar beets The region has also been a place where community leaders fought to improve their economic and social well being women redefined their roles on the farm and minorities asserted their own version of the American Dream The rural Midwest is a regional melting pot and contributors to this volume do not set out to sing its praises or by contrast assume the position of Midwestern modesty and self deprecation The essays herein rewrite the narrative of rural decline and crisis and show through solid research and impeccable scholarship that rural Midwesterners have confronted and created challenges uniquely their own Iowa and Some Iowans Betty Jo Buckingham,1988 The Great Migration in Historical Perspective Joe William Trotter,1991 Legions of black Americans left the South to migrate to the jobs of the North from the meat packing plants of Chicago to the shipyards of Richmond California These essays analyze the role of African Americans in shaping their own geographical movement emphasizing the role of black kin friend and communal network Contributors include Darlene Clark Hine Peter Gottlieb James R Grossman Earl Lewis Shirley Ann Moore and Joe William Trotter Jr Publisher The Filson Club History Quarterly ,1988 Includes list of members Encyclopedia of African-American Culture and History Jack Salzman,David L.
