Creating Africa In America Translocal Identity In An Emerging World City Contemporary Ethnography:

Creating Africa in America Jacqueline Copeland-Carson, 2012-03-13 With a booming economy that afforded numerous opportunities for immigrants throughout the 1990s the Twin Cities area has attracted people of African descent from throughout the United States and the world and is fast becoming a transnational metropolis Minnesota's largest urban area the region now also has the country's most diverse black population A closely drawn ethnography Creating Africa in America Translocal Identity in an Emerging World City seeks to understand and evaluate the process of identity formation in the context of globalization in a way that is also site specific Bringing to this study a rich and interesting professional history and expertise Jacqueline Copeland Carson focuses on a Minneapolis based nonprofit the Cultural Wellness Center which combines different ethnic approaches to bodily health and community well being as the basis for a shared translocal African culture The book explores how the body can become a surrogate locus for identity thus displacing territory as the key referent for organizing and experiencing African diasporan diversity Showing how alternatives are created to mainstream majority and Afrocentric approaches to identity she addresses the way that bridges can be built in the African diaspora among different African immigrant African American and other groups As this thoughtful and compassionate ethnographic study shows the fact that there is no simple and concrete way to define how one can be African in contemporary America reflects the tangled nature of cultural processes and social relations at large Copeland Carson demonstrates the cultural creativity and social dexterity of people living in an urban setting and suggests that anthropologists give more attention to the role of the nonprofit sector as a forum for creating community and identity throughout African diasporan history in the United States

Applying Anthropology in the Global Village Christina Wasson, Mary Odell Butler, Jacqueline Copeland-Carson, 2016-06-16 The realities of the globalized world have revolutionized traditional concepts of culture community and identity so how do applied social scientists use complicated fluid new ideas such as translocality and ethnoscape to solve pressing human problems In this book leading scholar practitioners survey the development of different subfields over at least two decades then offer concrete case studies to show how they have incorporated and refined new concepts and methods After an introduction synthesizing anthropological practice key theoretical concepts and ethnographic methods chapters examine the arenas of public health community development finance technology transportation gender environment immigration aging and child welfare An innovative guide to joining dynamic theoretical concepts with on the ground problem solving this book will be of interest to practitioners from a wide range of disciplines who work on social change as well as an excellent addition to graduate and undergraduate courses

Afrodescendants, Identity, and the Struggle for Development in the Americas Bernd Reiter, Kimberly Eison Simmons, 2012-04-01

Indigenous people and African descendants in Latin America and the Caribbean have long been affected by a social hierarchy established by elites through which some groups were racialized and others were normalized. Far from being racial paradises populated by an amalgamated cosmic race of mulattos and mestizos, Latin America and the Caribbean have long been sites of shifting exploitative strategies and ideologies ranging from scientific racism and eugenics to the more sophisticated official denial of racism and ethnic difference. This book among the first to focus on African descendants in the region brings together diverse reflections from scholars, activists, and funding agency representatives working to end racism and promote human rights in the Americas. By focusing on the ways racism inhibits agency among African descendants and the ways African descendant groups position themselves in order to overcome obstacles, this interdisciplinary book provides a multifaceted analysis of one of the gravest contemporary problems in the Americas. Sent Forth Kwiyani, Harvey C, 2014-10-10

The Oxford Handbook of Sociology for Social Justice Corey Dolgon, 2024. The Oxford Handbook of Sociology for Social Justice presents an alternative approach to sociological research that begins with community engagement and political commitments focused on social justice. The collection includes international case studies of students and faculty partnered with labor unions, farmers, and farmworkers, activists. Of many stripes and others who not only use their social science skills to support social justice work but also recognize how these movements impact our understanding of sociology to begin with.
