Creating Caring And Nurturing Educational Environments For African American Children:

Creating Caring and Nurturing Educational Environments for African American Children Vivian Morris, Curtis Morris, 2000-01-30 The history of the education of African American children in one Alabama town is reconstructed over a period of 100 years from the First Reconstruction period to the Second Reconstruction period Governor George Wallace's stand in the schoolhouse door Lessons learned from this case study in addition to 15 years of desegregated education in the community provides a perspective for educational policymakers to consider as they attempt to plan effective schools in the 21st century for all children in America Many have viewed segregated schools for African American students as dens of educational pathology with poor teachers and administrators poorly operated academic programs and activities dilapidated school buildings and scarce resources Until the last two decades little had been written about the internal functioning of these schools or the positive impact of their efforts from the perspective of their students families teachers or administrators Despite being underfunded understaffed and issued second hand books and equipment this school and community worked together as did many other African American schools and communities to create effective schooling for children This study addresses four major questions 1 What kinds of educational experiences did teachers and principals view as important for the successful education of African American children 2 How did the school interact with parents and the community 3 How did the educational environment change when African American children began attending desegregated schools 4 What can we learn from this successful school for African American children as well as their experiences in the desegregated setting that will provide a perspective for educational policymakers as we plan effective schools for all children in this country The findings from this case study present a perspective on which educational policymakers can build as we plan caring nurturing and equitable learning environments for children in schools in all communities

Creating Caring and Nurturing Educational Environments for African American Children Vivian Gunn Morris, Resources in Education, 1998

African American Women Educators Karen A. Johnson, Abul Pitre, Kenneth L. Johnson, 2014-03-18 This book examines the lived experiences and work of African American women educators during the 1880s to the 1960s Specifically this text portrays an array of Black educators who used their social location as educators and activists to resist and fight the interlocking structures of power oppression and privilege that existed across the various educational institutions in the U S during this time This book seeks to explore these educators thoughts and teaching practices in an attempt to understand their unique vision of education for Black students and the implications of their work for current educational reform

Narrowing the Achievement Gap Susan J. Paik, Herbert J. Walberg, 2007-06-04 The subject of minority children's learning has long been the concern of civic leaders parents scholars and educators The federal legislation No Child Left Behind emphasizes the concern even more It specifically requires assessing the academic achievement of minority students particularly in economically disadvantaged areas and holding schools accountable for their progress Schools that fail to attain Adequate Yearly Progress face the real possibility of being forced to close if they continually fail to perform Unlike the past these are increasingly high stakes consequences for educators parents students and the schools that serve them This book is timely and relevant because it addresses these issues and recommends solutions for Latino Black and Asian students This book also has implications for the problems the nation faces in helping all students to learn well particularly those that lag in academic achievement In considering the broad problems and in recommending solutions the book provides breadth concision and unique organization As the introductory chapter makes clear the book simultaneously considers not only the three most visible minority groups in the U S but draws upon the perspectives of anthropology education ethnic studies psychology and sociology From these several perspectives this book is organized within three broad sections 1 culturally diverse families and schooling 2 issues of immigration and schooling experiences and 3 socio cultural perspectives on teaching learning and development Within each section the authors marshal research literature regarding each ethnic minority group

The Price They Paid Vivian Gunn Morris, Curtis L. Morris, 2016 In this compelling book the authors put a human face on desegregation practices in the South Focusing on an African American community in Alabama they document not only the gains but also the significant losses experienced by students when their community school was closed and they were forced to attend a White desegregated school across town This in depth volume includes A letter by Dr William Hooper Councill and speeches by George Washington Trenholm two African American leaders who worked with communities to provide quality schooling for African American children during segregation An insider's view of what life was like inside a segregated African American school including interviews with graduates who discuss how it felt to be in a caring and nurturing school that provided an atmosphere much like that of a family Actual events that demonstrate the profound negative impact of using skin color and race as a basis for preferential treatment including testimonials from parents and students who experienced racial discrimination in their new school A valuable look at the unmet promises of school desegregation that can help us provide a quality education for all children in the 21st century Morris and Morris through their careful research have painted a picture of reality the type of picture that educators community leaders and policymakers must see in order to give a proper assessment of what is going on and what should be done This clear straightforward presentation is as necessary as it is powerful From the Foreword by Asa G Hilliard III I found it difficult to put this book down The Price They Paid is one of the few books that looks at changes in the desegregation of education from the point of view of those living the changes Lucindia H Chance Dean College Of Education Georgia Southern University

Black Male Teachers Chance W. Lewis, Ivory Toldson, 2013-04-23 This edited volume offers sound suggestions for advancing diversity in the teaching profession It provides teacher education programs with needed training materials to accommodate Black male students and school district administrators and leaders with information to help recruit and retain Black male teachers

Teaching J. R. Hart, 2002 Teachers are blamed for many of society's ills. They are accused of not successfully transforming our home products into brilliant socially upward success stories. They fail to cultivate manners in our crude offspring and they are guilty of being unable to get our children to focus on their studies. This book focuses on current issues in the teaching field. African American Review, 2002 As the official publication of the Division on Black American Literature and Culture of the Modern Language Association of America, African American Review promotes an exchange among writers and scholars in the arts, humanities, and social sciences who hold diverse perspectives of African American literature and culture.

Resounding Voices Gloria Boutte, 2002 This book discusses education through the voices of individuals from various ethnic groups who are not usually heard or who have been silenced. The uniqueness of this book lies in the diversity of authors from different ethnic groups, family backgrounds, disciplines, and geographic locations. The stories included in this book are based on interviews with people from the following groups: African Americans, Asian Americans, biracial Americans, European Americans, Latino Americans, and Native Americans. A particular strength of the book is that the interviews were conducted by people from the same ethnic group as the interviewees. Hence, the authors of each chapter possess insights about the cultural groups that may not be readily apparent to others. Each chapter explicitly provides educational implications and resources for educators or anyone interested in multicultural education. Subject Guide to Books in Print

Liberal Democracy in Schools Barbara J. Thayer-Bacon, 2008 In this unique union of philosophy and ethnographic research, Barbara Thayer-Bacon explains how the individualist legacy of liberal democracy as conceived by Locke and Rousseau ignores and excludes the needs of American students raised in cultures with strong communal traditions. Drawing upon her experience with the educational methods of other cultures as well as the work of modern educational philosophers such as Dewey, Barber, Young, and Mouffe, and Laclau, Thayer-Bacon shows us how our current vision of the democratic process as revealed in school practices routinely fails minority students. She offers recommendations to help us develop learning environments for students that are culturally aware, anti-racist, and relationally focused. This radical reimagining of American schools will be beneficial to researchers and practitioners alike. This book illustrates how current educational theories marginalize students belonging to a variety of minority populations: Native American, Mexican American, African American. It offers a new theory of educational philosophy that values both individuals and communities and makes room for emotion and intuition as learning tools and envisions new ways of teaching based on the author's experiences studying and observing schools in other cultures. Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 1999 *G.K.
