Creating The Kingdom Of Ends:

Creating the Kingdom of Ends Christine M. Korsgaard, 1996-07-28 Christine Korsgaard has become one of the leading interpreters of Kant's moral philosophy. She is identified with a small group of philosophers who are intent on producing a version of Kant's moral philosophy that is at once sensitive to its historical roots while revealing its particular relevance to contemporary problems. She rejects the traditional picture of Kant's ethics as a cold vision of the moral life which emphasises duty at the expense of love and value. Rather, Kant's work is seen as providing a resource for addressing not only the metaphysics of morals but also for tackling practical questions about personal relations, politics and everyday human interaction. This collection contains some of the finest current work on Kant's ethics and will command the attention of all those involved in teaching and studying moral theory.

Symposium on Christine Korsgaard's Creating the Kingdom of Ends Symposium on Christine Korsgaard's Creating the Kingdom of Ends (1997), 1998 The Sources of Normativity

Christine M. Korsgaard, 1996-06-28 Ethical concepts are or purport to be normative. They make claims on us; they command, oblige, recommend or guide. Or at least when we invoke them we make claims on one another but where does their authority over us or ours over one another come from? Christine Korsgaard identifies four accounts of the source of normativity that have been advocated by modern moral philosophers: voluntarism, realism, reflective endorsement and the appeal to autonomy. She traces their history, showing how each developed in response to the prior one and comparing their early versions with those on the contemporary philosophical scene. Kant's theory that normativity springs from our own autonomy emerges as a synthesis of the other three and Korsgaard concludes with her own version of the Kantian account. Her discussion is followed by commentary from G. A. Cohen, Raymond Geuss, Thomas Nagel and Bernard Williams and a reply by Korsgaard.

The Ethics of Genetic Engineering Roberta M. Berry, 2013-05-13 Human genetic engineering may soon be possible. The gathering debate about this prospect already threatens to become mired in irresolvable disagreement. After surveying the scientific and technological developments that have brought us to this pass, The Ethics of Genetic Engineering focuses on the ethical and policy debate, noting the deep divide that separates proponents and opponents. The book locates the source of this divide in differing framing assumptions: reductionist/pluralist on one side, holist/communitarian on the other. The book argues that we must bridge this divide, drawing on the resources from both encampments if we are to understand and cope with the distinctive problems posed by genetic engineering. These problems, termed 'fractious problems', are novel, complex, ethically fraught, unavoidably of public concern and unavoidably divisive. Berry examines three prominent ethical and political theories: utilitarianism, Kantianism and virtue ethics, to consider their competency in bridging the divide and addressing these fractious problems. The book concludes that virtue ethics can best guide parental decision making and that a new policymaking approach, sketched here as a navigational approach, can best guide policymaking. These approaches enable us to gain a rich understanding of the problems posed and to craft resolutions adequate to their challenges.

Ethics and Practical Reason

Garrett Cullity, Berys Gaut, 1997-11-20 These thirteen new specially written essays by a distinguished international line up of contributors including some leading contemporary moral philosophers give a rich and varied view of current work on ethics and practical reason. The three main perspectives on the topic: Kantian, Humean and Aristotelian are all well represented. The editors' introduction provides a valuable introductory survey of the topic, putting the individual essays in context. Ethics and Practical Reason will be essential reading for scholars, postgraduates and upper level undergraduates working in this area. These thirteen new specially written essays by a distinguished international line up of contributors including some leading contemporary moral philosophers give a rich and varied view of current work on ethics and practical reason. The three main perspectives on the topic: Kantian, Humean and Aristotelian are all well represented. Issues covered include the connection between reason and motivation, the source of moral reasons and their relation to reasons of self-interest, the relation of practical reason to value, to freedom, to responsibility and to feelings. Destruction Of The Self Sandra Jane Fairbanks, 2019-03-01 This book explains Kantian morality against an interrelated set of criticisms that constitute the most influential contemporary critique of Kantian morality. It demonstrates that a theory which emphasizes the guidance of impartial moral principles does not threaten a person's feelings of attachment. Values and the Reflective Point of View Robert Dunn, 2016-02-17 Values are inescapable. They pervade and shape our psychology, our agency and our lives as reflective and self-knowing subjects. This book explores the crucial ways in which values figure within reflection and thereby shape our theoretical and practical lives against the backdrop of an expressivist moral psychology that is sensitive to the vicissitudes of valuing. Combining a discussion of the role that values play within reflection with a critique of a range of influential contemporary views in moral psychology and the theory of agency, Dunn shows how such views obscure or distort the nature of that role and that there is a natural fit between an expressivist account of values and the best account of the role of values in the lives of reflective agents. Writers discussed include Simon Blackburn, Michael E. Bratman, Donald Davidson, Harry Frankfurt, Christine Korsgaard, Thomas Nagel and J. David Velleman. The book is also an important addition to the literature on self-knowledge. Dunn argues that by reasoning about truth and values we possess a unique, non-observational way of coming to know our own minds and hearts together with what we are going to make happen in the world. The discussion criticizes recent contributions to the theory of self-knowledge by Richard Moran and J. David Velleman.
