Creating Instructional Materials Robert V. Bullough, 1974 Creating Instructional Multimedia Solutions Peter Fenrich, 2005 Creating Instructional Materials Robert V. Bullough, 1988 Instructional Materials for Developing Information Concepts and Information-handling Skills in Schoolchildren UNISIST (Program), 1981 Organizing a Program for Creating Instructional Materials Kenneth Gene Faris, John A. Moldstad, 1966 AV Instructional Materials Manual James Wilson Brown, Richard B. Lewis, 1959 Designing and Developing Instructional Materials Janise Richards, 1988 Developing Auto-instructional Materials A.J. Romiszowski, 2013-12-16 This two volume work on the development of instruction is planned as a companion to an earlier book Designing Instructional Systems The present work continues the micro design stages of lesson and instructional materials development Taken together these two volumes give extensive coverage of practical techniques for the development of instruction This title draws a distinction between instructional design and instructional development although some authors seem to use the two terms synonymously The structure of the content will enable the two volumes to be used conveniently as both initial reading or later reference material Teaching First-Year College Students Maggie Murphy, 2019-05-15 The first year experience is an emerging hot topic in academic libraries and many librarians who work with first year students are interested in best practices for engaging and retaining them Professional discussion and interest groups conferences and vendor sponsored awards for librarians working with first year students are popping up left and right A critical aspect of libraries in the first year experience is effective information literacy instruction for first year students Research shows that despite growing up in a world rife with technology and information students entering college rarely bring with them the conceptual understandings and critical habits of thinking needed for finding evaluating and ethically using information in both academic and real world contexts Faculty in upper level courses expect students to learn about the research process in their first year of college and instructors in the first year curriculum expect librarians to teach this to their students Despite all this designing teaching and evaluating effective information literacy instruction specifically for first year students is not necessarily intuitive for instruction librarians That is why Teaching First Year College Students A Practical Guide for Librarians is a comprehensive how to guide for both new and experienced librarians interested in planning teaching and assessing library instruction for first year students The book Examines the related histories of library instruction and first year experience initiatives Summarizes and synthesizes empirical research and educational theory about first year students as learners and novice researchers Establishes best practices for engaging first year students through active learning and inclusive teaching Features excerpts from interviews with a number of instruction librarians who work with first year students in a range of positions and instructional contexts Includes examples of activities lesson plans and assessment ideas for first year library instruction for common first year course scenarios Includes a template to use for library instruction lesson

Active Learning in College Science Joel J. Mintzes,Emily M. Walter,2020-02-23 This book explores evidence based practice in college science teaching It is grounded in disciplinary education research by practicing scientists who have chosen to take Wieman s 2014 challenge seriously and to investigate claims about the efficacy of alternative strategies in college science teaching In editing this book we have chosen to showcase outstanding cases of exemplary practice supported by solid evidence and to include practitioners who offer models of teaching and learning that meet the high standards of the scientific disciplines Our intention is to let these distinguished scientists speak for themselves and to offer authentic guidance to those who seek models of excellence Our primary audience consists of the thousands of dedicated faculty and graduate students who teach undergraduate science at community and technical colleges 4 year liberal arts institutions comprehensive regional campuses and flagship research universities In keeping with Wieman s challenge our primary focus has been on identifying classroom practices that encourage and support meaningful learning and conceptual understanding in the natural sciences The content is structured as follows after an Introduction based on Constructivist Learning Theory Section I the practices we explore are Eliciting Ideas and Encouraging Reflection Section II Using Clickers to Engage Students Section III Supporting Peer Interaction through Small Group Activities Section IV Restructuring Curriculum and Instruction Section V Rethinking the Physical Environment Section VI Enhancing Understanding with Technology Section VII and Assessing Understanding Section VIII The book s final section IX is devoted to Professional Issues facing college and university faculty who choose to adopt active learning in their courses The common feature underlying all of the strategies described in this book is their emphasis on actively engaging students who seek to make sense of natural objects and events Many of the strategies we highlight emerge from a constructivist view of learning that has gained widespread acceptance in recent years In this view learners make sense of the world by forging connections between new ideas and those that are part of their existing knowledge base For most students that knowledge base is riddled with a host of na ve notions misconceptions and alternative conceptions they have acquired throughout their lives To a considerable extent the job of the teacher is to coax out these ideas to help students understand how their ideas differ from the scientifically accepted view to assist as students restructure and reconcile their newly acquired knowledge and to provide opportunities for students to evaluate what they have learned and apply it in novel circumstances Clearly this prescription demands far more than most college and university scientists have been prepared for
