Creation Of Regional Dependency:

The Creation of Regional Dependency Ralph Matthews, 1983 The Creation of Regional Dependency [sound Recording] Ralph Matthews, 1986 The Creation of Regional Dependency Ralph Matthews, 1983 Innovation Drivers and Regional Innovation Strategies M. Davide Parrilli, Rune Dahl Fitjar, Andrés Rodríguez-Pose, 2016-02-05

In the global economy regional development and innovation are increasingly an imperative to increase the competitive edge of EU economies. While European regions are different in many ways, the innovation capacity of regions, clusters, and firms is what makes them capable of building up new and diversified pathways for sustainable growth. For this reason, Innovation Drivers and Regional Innovation Strategies looks to analyze different knowledge drivers, e.g., entrepreneurial or policy orientation, scientific and practice-based knowledge, modes of institutional innovation support that influence the innovative and competitive capacity of regions, clusters, and firms in Europe. The aim of this volume is to develop an in-depth understanding of these drivers and their implications for the way in which regional and cluster growth may be upgraded. Innovation Drivers and Regional Innovation Strategies examines the construction of new innovation pathways for regions and clusters in different geographical contexts. The main themes are cluster evolution, regional innovation systems, and business innovation modes and capabilities. The objectives are centred on exploring the logic and mechanisms that can be activated as a means to promote innovation and competitiveness within regions and within these across and within firms. Aimed at researchers and academics in the field, this is a thoughtful and innovative new volume that helps define the academic debate.

The Political Economy of Discontinuous Development Milica Z. Bookman, 1991-11-30

Outbursts of regional conflict within national boundaries have characterized recent years. Sub-national states including parts of the Soviet Union, India, Canada, and Yugoslavia dissatisfied with their central governments seek forms of independence to pursue autonomous development paths. These region-state conflicts have occurred in nations at all levels of development: Canada and Indonesia, France and Papua New Guinea, under diverse economic systems, the USSR and Canada, Yugoslavia and Spain, and across political systems, federations such as India and unitary states such as Italy. Bookman's study develops methods whereby both state and region can evaluate the region's potential to sustain economic growth autonomously, filling the gap in current perceptions of inter-regional relations. Bookman introduces the concept of discontinuous development to facilitate the analysis of sub-national regions that have varying levels of development. The volume's emphasis on high-income regions within both agricultural and industrial nations and on the economic basis of conflict makes it a unique contribution that assesses the viability of regions as autonomous entities. The major part of the volume studies empirical evidence from India and Yugoslavia, especially timely in light of present ethnic and religious conflicts in both countries. The volume is divided into three sections: Foundations, Discontinuous Development, and Inter-regional Conflict and Empirical Evidence from India and Yugoslavia. The first section presents a theoretical framework for issues internal to regions as well as regions relative to the nation. It also outlines four ways of studying inter regional conflict which are explored in the empirical chapters Part 2 analyzes eight high income regions characterized by discontinuous development and relates their experiences to the four hypotheses presented earlier The last section contains empirical chapters testing the model in the context of India and Yugoslavia The final chapter contains a full discussion of the hypotheses pertaining to secession and offers some suggestions concerning the possibilities of secession as the outcome of inter regional conflict The explosive consequences of recent trends make it imperative that scholars in development economics political economy political science and macroeconomics as well as policy makers comprehend the inter regional economic and political relationships behind these conflicts

Community, Scale, and Regional Governance Liesbet Hooghe, Gary Marks, 2016-08-18 This is the second of five ambitious volumes theorizing the structure of governance above and below the central state This book is written for those interested in the character causes and consequences of governance within the state The book argues that jurisdictional design is shaped by the functional pressures that arise from the logic of scale in providing public goods and by the preferences that people have regarding self government The first has to do with the character of the public goods provided by government their scale economies externalities and informational asymmetries The second has to do with how people conceive and construct the groups to which they feel themselves belonging In this book the authors demonstrate that scale and community are principles that can help explain some basic features of governance including the growth of multiple tiers over the past six decades how jurisdictions are designed why governance within the state has become differentiated and the extent to which regions exert authority The authors propose a postfunctionalist theory which rejects the notion that form follows function and argue that whilst functional pressures are enduring one must engage human passions regarding self rule to explain variation in the structures of rule over time and around the world Transformations in Governance is a major new academic book series from Oxford University Press It is designed to accommodate the impressive growth of research in comparative politics international relations public policy federalism environmental and urban studies concerned with the dispersion of authority from central states up to supranational institutions down to subnational governments and side ways to public private networks It brings together work that significantly advances our understanding of the organization causes and consequences of multilevel and complex governance The series is selective containing annually a small number of books of exceptionally high quality by leading and emerging scholars The series targets mainly single authored or co authored work but it is pluralistic in terms of disciplinary specialization research design method and geographical scope Case studies as well as comparative studies historical as well as contemporary studies and studies with a national regional or international focus are all central to its aims Authors use qualitative quantitative formal modeling or mixed methods A trade mark of the books is that they combine scholarly rigour with readable prose and an attractive production style The series is edited by Liesbet Hooghe and Gary Marks of the University of North Carolina Chapel Hill and the VU Amsterdam and Walter Mattli of the University of Oxford OECD Regions and Cities at a Glance 2018 OECD,2018-10-09 This report looks at how regions and cities across the OECD are progressing towards stronger economies higher quality of life for their citizens and more inclusive societies This edition presents regional and metropolitan updates for more than 40 indicators to assess disparities

Regionalism and Theory Jonathan Rittenhouse,Courtice G. Rose,1992 Acadiensis ,1991 Studies in Political Economy ,1989 Sustainable Development, Regional Governance, and International Organizations Anastassia Obydenkova,2024-06-28 This book aspires to establish a dialogue among the studies of sustainable development global environmental politics comparative regionalism and area studies of Eurasia The chapters in this book reflect deep knowledge of the authors of the main trends in environmental politics at global international and national levels before the invasion in Ukraine in 2022 First the book looks into the role and impact of international organizations such as the European Union EU European Bank for Reconstruction and Development EBRD Arctic Council AC and Global Forums on Climate Action on post Communist states but also the role of nation states e g Russia Kazakhstan and China Second the book explores relatively new international organizations such as the Eurasian Economic Union EAEU the Eurasian Development Bank and the Shanghai Cooperation Organization SCO How do the EAEU EDB and the SCO matter if at all in promoting an environmental agenda How do the EU EBRD and the AC advance the environmental agenda across the post Communist region This book aspires to answer these questions and to shed more light on the challenges to sustainable development in post Communist Europe Central Asia and Eurasia With a new foreword and afterword this book will appeal to students scholars and researchers of political science international relations area studies as well as practitioners and policymakers working in international organizations and dealing with challenges of sustainable development The other chapters were originally published as a special issue of Problems of Post Communism Infrastructure and Regional Development Roger William Vickerman,1991 Infrastructure has for many years been a substantial item on the agenda of the European Community s regional policy but has had little impact on the narrowing of regional disparities It has now come to the fore again with the recognition that there is a need for a genuinely European infrastructure not just in the obvious areas of physical The Regional Effects of External Economic Dependency on Underdeveloped Countries Roberto Bravo Garzón,1973 Economic Dependence and Regional Cooperation in Southern Africa Olayiwola Abegunrin,1990 A comprehensive analysis of SADCC as a new regional institution of inter state economic co operation this text begins with the Pan African Movement for East and Central Africa established in 1958 and emphasizes the role of South Africa and external powers in the economies of Southern African states The author also seeks to show how the dependence of SADCC states can be explained within the context of centre periphery

Regional Responsiveness and the National Administrative State Peter Aucoin,1985 Reappraisals in Canadian History Carl Murray Wallace,Robert Matthew Bray,1999 Realism and Regional Development Eric S. Belsky,1987 The purpose of this dissertation is to develop a conceptual framework for the theoretical and empirical analysis of the role that produce marketing systems play in the development of peasant regions and to apply this conceptual framework in Tungurahua Ecuador

The Regional Geography of Canada Robert M. Bone, 2000 While physical and historical geography have traditionally played a central role in the study of Canadian geography this book gives more weight to the coverage of contemporary economic and social factors which have transformed the spatial fabric of Canada's landscape The text consists of two sections the first examines elements and issues that affect the national character of Canada and the second moves to the regional scene with chapters on Ontario Quebec British Columbia Western Canada Atlantic Canada and the Territorial North
