For over a century, the indexical relationship of the photographic image and its related media of film and video to the scene of capture has served as a basis for truth claims. Historically, the iconicity of these images has featured a causal traceback to actual light rays in a particular time and space, which were fixed by chemical reactions or digital sensors to the resultant image. Today, photorealistic audiovisual media can be generated from deep learning networks that sever any connection to an actual event. Should society instantiate new regimes to manage this new challenge to our sense of reality and the traditional evidential capacities of the mechanical image? How do these images generate information disorder while also providing the basis for legitimate tools used in entertainment and creative industries? Scholars and students from many backgrounds, as well as policymakers, journalists, and the general reading public, will find a multidisciplinary approach to questions posed by deep fake research from Communication, International Studies, Writing, and Rhetoric. Dr. Dobb's Journal of Software Tools for the Professional Programmer, 1988    Bowker's Complete Video Directory, 2000    PC AI., 1997    Index Medicus, 2003 Vols for 1963 include as pt 2 of the Jan issue.
