Cattle Killing:

The Cattle Killing John Edgar Wideman, 1996 A surrealistic novel on the black experience The action is in the form of vignettes and ranges from cattle killing by the Xhosa in Africa believing this will drive the whites away to a black bishop in Philadelphia taking his flock out of the white man's church Records and Briefs of the United States Supreme Court, 1832

Descriptions of Occupations United States. Bureau of Labor Statistics, 1918 The Dead will Arise Jeff Peires, 2013-06-07 The Dead Will Arise tells the story of Nongqawuse the young Xhosa girl whose prophecy of the resurrection of the dead lured an entire people to death by starvation The Great Cattle Killing of 1856-57 which she initiated is one of the most extraordinary and misunderstood events in South Africa's history Jeff Peires was the first historian to draw on all available sources from oral tradition and obscure Xhosa texts to the private letters and secret reports of police informers and colonial officials and the original edition of The Dead Will Arise won the 1989 Alan Paton Sunday Times award for non-fiction

The Repeating Body Kimberly Juanita Brown, 2015-08-27 Haunted by representations of black women that resist the reality of the body's vulnerability Kimberly Juanita Brown traces slavery's afterlife in black women's literary and visual cultural productions Brown draws on black feminist theory visual culture studies literary criticism and critical race theory to explore contemporary visual and literary representations of black women's bodies that embrace and foreground the body's vulnerability and slavery's inherent violence She shows how writers such as Gayl Jones Toni Morrison Audre Lorde and Jamaica Kincaid along with visual artists Carrie Mae Weems and Mar a Magdalena Campos Pons highlight the scarred and broken bodies of black women by repeating passing down and making visible the residues of slavery's existence and cruelty Their work not only provides a corrective to those who refuse to acknowledge that vulnerability but empowers black women to create their own subjectivities In The Repeating Body Brown returns black women to the center of discourses of slavery thereby providing the means with which to more fully understand slavery's history and its penetrating reach into modern American life

The House of Tshatshu Anne Kelk Mager, Phiko Jeffrey Velelo, 2018-08-30 In rural South Africa today there are signs that chieftaincies are resurging after having been disbanded in colonial times Among these is the amaTshatshu of the Eastern Cape which was disestablished in 1852 by the British and recognised once more under the democratic ANC dispensation in 2003 Bawana leader of the amaTshatshu was the first Thembu chief to cross the Kei River in the mid 1820s to open up the northeastern frontier of the Cape Colony His successors and followers fought the British in the frontier wars but were defeated In tracing his history and that of his descendants this book explores the meaning of chieftainship in South Africa at the time of colonial conquest under apartheid's bantustans and now post apartheid It illustrates not only the story of a beleaguered and dispossessed people but also the ways in which power is constructed In addition it is about gender and land about belonging identity and naming The book unsettles accounts of chiefly authority unpacks conflicts between royal families municipalities and government departments and explores the impasse created by these quarrels It retrieves evidence that the colonial state sought to obliterate and draws the disempowered back into the process of making history The authors are both closely associated with the land and the people of the amaTshatshu One is a historian who grew up on their land and the other is counsellor to the chief As such they bring their knowledge and respective skills to bear in this book The collaboration of a black and a white author sets up a creative tension which animates the text and is a powerful element of the book

The Dead Will Arise Jeffrey B. Peires, 2003 The story of Nongqawuse the young girl whose fantastic promise of the resurrection lured almost an entire people to death by starvation is one of the most misunderstood of central events in South African history
