Catullan Provocations William Fitzgerald, 1995 A fresh exploration into the provocative lyric poetry of Catullus that underscores the reader poem poet relationship The Fiction of Occasion in Hellenistic and Roman Poetry Adrian Gramps, 2021-07-05 The aim of this book is to devise a method for approaching the problem of presence in Hellenistic and Roman poetry The problem of presence as defined here is the problem of the availability or accessibility to the reader of the fictional worlds disclosed by poetry From Callimachus Hymns to the Odes of Horace poets of this era repeatedly challenge readers by beckoning them to explore fictive spaces which are at once familiar and otherworldly realms of the imagination which are nevertheless firmly rooted in the lived reality of the poets and their contemporaries We too when we read these poems may feel simultaneously a sense of being transported to a world apart and of being seized upon by the poem s address in the here and now of reading The fiction of occasion is proposed as a new conceptual tool for understanding how these poems produce such problematic presences and what varieties of experience they make possible for their readers The fiction of occasion is defined as a phenomenon whereby a poem is fictionally framed as part of a material event or occasion with which the reader is invited to engage through the medium of the senses The book explores this concept through close readings of key authors from the corpus of first person poetry written in Greek and Latin between the 3rd century BCE and the 1st century CE with a focus on Callimachus Bion Catullus Propertius and Horace The ultimate purpose of these readings is to move towards developing a new vocabulary for conceptualising ancient poetry as an embodied experience Catullan Consciousness and the Early Modern Lyric in England Jacob Blevins, 2004 By comparing Catullus to English lyricists of the 16th and early 17th centuries Jacob Blevins here identifies a common function of the genre lyric love poetry he argues provides the space in which speakers attempt to situate their self identity among dominate cultural ideologies and individual desires The intratextual nature of the lyric sequence allows for the constant positioning and repositioning of the lyric subject who must both valorize and reject the cultural ideals on which his relationship and desires should be founded the poetry represents a process of constructing a self within two conflicting needs Blevins argues that only in the subjectivity inherent in the lyric genre is this process possible and that this process is the defining element in successful lyric poetry whether that of Catullus or of the Renaissance poets Sir Thomas Wyatt William Shakespeare Edmund Spenser Sir Philip Sidney and John Donne Catullus: Oxford Bibliographies Online Research Guide Oxford University Press, 2010-05-01 This ebook is a selective guide designed to help scholars and students of the ancient world find reliable sources of information by directing them to the best available scholarly materials in whatever form or format they appear from books chapters and journal articles to online archives electronic data sets and blogs Written by a leading international authority on the subject the ebook provides bibliographic information supported by direct recommendations about which sources to consult and editorial commentary to make it clear how the cited sources are interrelated A reader will discover for instance the most reliable

Poetic Garlands Kathryn J. Gutzwiller, 2023-12-22 Epigrams the briefest of Greek poetic forms had a strong appeal for readers of the Hellenistic period 323-31 B.C. One of the most characteristic literary forms of the era the epigram unlike any other ancient or classical form of poetry was not only composed for public recitation but was also collected in books intended for private reading Brief and concise concerned with the personal and the particular the epigram emerged in the Hellenistic period as a sophisticated literary form that evinces the period's aesthetic preference for the miniature the intricate and the fragmented Kathryn Gutzwiller offers the first full length literary study of these important poems by studying the epigrams within the context of the poetry books in which they were originally collected Drawing upon ancient sources as well as recent papyrological discoveries Gutzwiller reconstructs the nature of Hellenistic epigram books and interprets individual poems as if they remained part of their original collections This approach results in illuminating and original readings of many major poets and demonstrates that individual epigrammatists were differentiated by gender ethnicity class status and philosophical views In an important final chapter Gutzwiller reconstructs much of the poetic structure of Meleager's Garland an ancient anthology of Hellenistic epigrams

Literary Construction of Identity in the Ancient World Hanna Liss, Manfred Oeming, 2010-06-30 Encountering an ancient text not only as a historical source but also as a literary artifact entails an important paradigm shift which in recent years has taken place in classical and Oriental philology Biblical scholars Egyptologists and classical philologists have been pioneers in supplementing traditional historical critical exegesis with more literary approaches This has led to a wealth of new insights While the methodological consequences of this shift have been discussed within each discipline until recently there has not been an attempt to discuss its validity and methodology on an interdisciplinary level In 2006 the Faculty of Bible and Biblical Interpretation at the Hochschule für Jüdische Studien Heidelberg and the Faculty of Theology at the University of Heidelberg invited scholars from the U S Canada the Netherlands Israel and Germany to examine these issues Under the title Literary Fiction and the Construction of Identity in Ancient Literatures Options and Limits of Modern Literary Approaches in the Exegesis of Ancient Texts experts in Egyptology classical philology ancient Near Eastern studies biblical studies Jewish studies literary studies and comparative religion came together to present current research and debate open questions At this conference each representative from a total of 23 different disciplines dealt with literary theory in regard to his or her area of research The present volume organizes 17 of the resulting essays along 5 thematic lines that show how similar issues are dealt with in different disciplines 1 Thinking of Ancient Texts as Literature 2 The Identity of Authors and Readers 3 Fiction and Fact 4 Rereading Biblical Poetry and 5 Modeling the Future by Reconstructing the Past Catullus Amanda Kolson Hurley, 2004-08-02 Catullus who lived from about 84 to 54 BC was one of ancient Rome's most gifted versatile and passionate poets In this accessible short book Amanda Kolson Hurley explores the many facets of Catullus poetry discussing in detail over twenty of his most important poems ranging from obscene and abusive epigrams to delicate lyrics and formal wedding hymns Catullus relates many of his poems in the first person and may therefore seem an artlessly sincere narrator yet this impression is misleading Hurley examines the skilful rhetoric the poet employs to gain his reader's sympathy and confronts a major difficulty involved in reading Catullus while the autobiographical hints in his most famous poems make us want to learn more about him much of his history has been lost The book presents the poet's work clearly in the context of ancient Roman culture and society and looks at the reception of Catullus in English literature a tradition that has shaped modern thinking about the poet Arion, 1996 Reading for the Novel Antonia Jane Reobone Syson, 2003

Translating Desire in Medieval and Early Modern Literature Craig Berry, Heather Hayton, 2005 For medieval and early modern poets philosophers and political subjects to articulate desire was to stake out the boundaries of the cultural and communal self Working in the midst of political dangers intellectual and religious crises and social upheavals many medieval and Renaissance writers began appropriating discourses of desire in order to engage in comment upon and cope with their cultural environments This translatio of desire offers an efficient yet flexible paradigm for examining the construction of the desiring subject This collection of new essays addresses the translation of desire across the borders of nation language genre and gender It explores how medieval and early modern authors convert discourses of desire whose conventions are primarily male literary and erotic into terms that serve the mixed social religious political and literary aspirations of both male and female voices The essays range in topic from gendered authority in the high medieval epistle to the eroticized politics of a Huguenot poet Some take up cases where the primary end of desire is literary authority and others where social and political concerns drive the adaptation of desire but even this border is permeable to translation International Bibliography of Book Reviews of Scholarly Literature Chiefly in the Fields of Arts and Humanities and the Social Sciences, 1996 Catullus in English Gaius Valerius Catullus, 2001 Aspects of Catullus' Social Fiction Christopher Nappa, 2001 Aspects of Catullus Social Fiction examines a number of facets of Catullus poetic persona as they relate to particular tensions and institutions in Roman society Analyzed here are several familiar texts but also some less commonly studied poems which have much to teach us about Catullan poetry and late Republican Rome Each chapter presents a close reading of one or more poems and a discussion of the interrelationships between them as well as certain overarching themes of Catullus work as a whole such as the Roman conception of masculinity and effeminacy the nature of poetic composition and the ways in which Roman society determined and often compromised the moral status of the individual An introduction sets out a number of issues preliminary to the interpretation of Catullan poetry and a conclusion suggests implications for a more general understanding of the poet and his work The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 1996 Writing Epigrams Gordon L. Fain, 2008 Every poet is deeply influenced by the verse of other poets This influence is particularly apparent in the way poets compose their poems which all poets learn by carefully reading the poetry of their predecessors Though the style that poets eventually adopt may be unique and formed by their own particular genius certain features of their poems will nevertheless reveal at least in part those earlier poets who have been most important to the formation of their art This work attempts to trace the progression of style in Greek and Latin epigrams from early inscription to the poems of Martial by characterizing features of composition that are transferable from one language to another Such aspects of style include the syntax of sentences that begin and end the poems the use of vocatives and address and the structure of the poems that is whether they proceed with or without formal elements such as antithesis logical argument and parallel phrasing The results of this analysis place on much stronger footing such often held but still controversial views that short elegy played a large role in the development of Hellenistic epigram that the poems of Catullus in elegiacs and hendecasyllables show fundamental differences in style and that the poet most important to the development of the way Martial wrote his poetry was not Lucilius or Nearchus but rather Catullus These conclusions help define more clearly the affinities of style and patterns of influence that were responsible for the form of the ancient epigram Studies in Latin Literature and Roman History Carl Deroux, 1979 Ancient Roman Writers Ward W. Briggs, 1999 The history of Rome is essentially the history of one nation imitating another namely Greece The Romans invented only one genre the satire Roman writers borrowed their subject matter from the Greeks in all but one respect history Several of these Roman authors were slaves or came from slave families It was the Greek speaking early freed slaves that taught the Romans to give their literature subjectivity
