Lexical Perspectives on Transitivity and Ergativity Maarten Lemmens, 1998-01-01 Fusing insights from cognitive grammar systemic functional grammar and Government Binding the present work elaborates and refines Davidse's view that the English grammar of lexical causatives is governed by the transitive and ergative paradigms two distinct models of causation Davidse 1991 1992 However on the basis of extensive synchronic and diachronic data on verbs of killing e.g. kill execute choke or drown it is shown that transitivity and ergativity are not absolute but prototypical characteristics of verbs which may be overruled by the semantics of the construal in which they occur The variable transitive or ergative character of the verbs reveals the complex interaction between the semantics of the construction and that of the verb The diachronic analyses further illustrate how in the course of time verbs may change their paradigmatic properties either temporarily e.g. the ergativization of strangle throttle and smother or permanently e.g. the causativization of starve or the partial transitivization of abort The analyses show that these changes are semantically well motivated and further illustrate the cognitive reality of the two causative models The work explores the experiential basis of the prototypical paradigmatic behaviour of verbs e.g. the ergative predilection of the SUFFOCATE verbs In addition it attempts to shed more light on the semantics and restrictions of certain constructions such as the medio passive the derivation of adjectives in -able or the derivation of agentive nominals in -er

Semantic Transitivity in the "Into"-Causative. An Analysis M.

Klaiber, 2023-06-01 Seminar paper from the year 2019 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Linguistics grade 2/3 Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz language English abstract This essay discusses the into causative a rather modern subject in linguistics and its semantic transitivity The author argues that by using Hopper and Thompson's transitivity criteria it is not only possible to analyse the degree of transitivity of the into causative but also to get insights in which contexts certain transitivity patterns occur In order to classify his findings the author first examines these constructions with respect to Hopper and Thompson's features of Mode and Affirmation Afterwards these features are further classified and it is shown whether there are features that attract each other also including the aspect of reflexiveness and voice As a last step he illustrates the degree of semantic transitivity of the into causative using the features analysed in this study

The Grammar of Causation and Interpersonal Manipulation Masayoshi Shibatani, 2002 This volume presents fifteen original papers dealing with various aspects of causative constructions ranging from morphology to semantics with emphasis on language data from Central and South America Informed by a better understanding of how different constructions are positioned both synchronically e.g. on a semantic map and diachronically e.g. through grammaticalization processes the volume affords a comprehensive up to date perspective on the perennial issues in the grammar of causation such as the distribution of competing causative morphemes the meaning distinctions among them and the overall form meaning correlation Morphosyntactic interactions of causatives with other phenomena such as incorporation and

Transitive Nouns and Adjectives John J. Lowe, 2017-06-16 This book explores the wealth of evidence from early Indo Aryan for the existence of transitive nouns and adjectives a rare linguistic phenomenon which according to some categorizations of word classes should not occur John Lowe shows that most transitive nouns and adjectives attested in early Indo Aryan cannot be analysed as a type of non finite verb category but must be acknowledged as a distinct constructional type The volume provides a detailed introduction to transitivity verbal and adpositional the categories of agent and action noun and to early Indo Aryan Four periods of early Indo Aryan are selected for study Rigvedic Sanskrit the earliest Indo Aryan Vedic Prose a slightly later form of Sanskrit Epic Sanskrit a form of Sanskrit close to the standardized Classical Sanskrit and Pali the early Middle Indo Aryan language of the Buddhist scriptures John Lowe shows that while each linguistic stage is different there are shared features of transitive nouns and adjectives which apply throughout the history of early Indo Aryan The data is set in the wider historical context from Proto Indo European to Modern Indo Aryan and a formal linguistic analysis of transitive nouns and adjectives is provided in the framework of Lexical Functional Grammar
