Living in Words Garry L. Hagberg,2023 Garry Hagberg investigates the role that literature plays in the constitution of a human being and the connection between the language we see at work in imaginative fiction and the language we develop to describe ourselves He asks whether self descriptive or autobiographical language itself plays an active role in shaping our identities Skirmishes Graham Harman,2020 One of the fifty most influential living philosophers a self promoting charlatan Brian Leiter and the orchestrator of an online orgy of stupidity Ray Brassier In Skirmishes With Friends Enemies and Neutrals Graham Harman responds with flair and wit to some of his best known critics and fellow travelers Pulling no punches Harman gives a masterclass in philosophical argumentation by dissecting analyzing and countering their criticism be it from the Husserlian Heideggerian or Derridean corner At the same time Skirmishes provides an excellent introduction to the hottest debates in Speculative Realism and Object Oriented Ontology a speculative style of philosophy long foreclosed by the biases of mainstream continental thought but which has turned in recent years into one of the most encompassing philosophies of our time with a major impact on the arts humanities and architecture Part One considers four prominent books on speculative realism In dialogue with Tom Sparrow s The End of Phenomenology Harman expresses agreement with Sparrow s critique while taking issue with Lee Braver s transgressive realism as not realist enough Turning to Steven Shaviro s The Universe of Things Harman defends his own object oriented model against Shaviro s brand of process philosophy while also engaging in side debate with Levi R Bryant s distinction between virtual proper being and local manifestations In the third chapter on Peter Gratton s Speculative Realism Problems and Prospects Harman opposes the author s attempt to use Derridean notions of time and difference against Speculative Realism in what amounts to his most extensive engagement with Derrida to date Chapter Four gives us Harman s response to Peter Wolfendale s massive polemic in Object Oriented Philosophy which he shows is based on a failed criticism of Harman s reading of Heidegger and a grumpy commitment to rationalist kitsch Part Two responds to a series of briefer criticisms of object oriented ontology When Alberto Toscano accuses Harman and Bruno Latour of neo monadological and anti scientific thinking Harman responds that the philosophical factors pushing Leibniz into monadology are still valid today When Christopher Norris mocks Harman for seeing merit in the occasionalist school he shows why Norris s middle of the road scientific realism misses the point In response to Dan Zahavi s contention that phenomenology has little to learn from speculative realism Harman exposes the holes in Zahavi s reasoning In a final response Harman gives a point by point answer to Stephen Mulhall s critical foray in the London Review of Books Amidst these lively debates Harman sheds new light on what he regards as the central bias of philosophical modernism which he terms the taxonomical standpoint It is a book sure to provoke lively controversy among both friends and foes of

object oriented thought
