

The Freedom Writers Diary
Junior Year: Spring 1997
Journal Prompts

Choose one of the following prompts to respond to in your journal. Your journal entry needs to be a minimum of one page, but please feel free to write more if you have something important you would like to share with me!

Diary 67: Anne Frank's Friends Visit

This student writes, "My mom always says, "Silence will get you nowhere in life." Think of opportunities you've had in your life to speak up for yourself or someone you know. Have you spoken up or remained silent? What inspired your choice?

Diary 68: Masking Fears

The Freedom Writer in this entry is new to Ms. Gruwell's class and nervous about opening up. Compare the situation to your own life. When you have a new experience or meet new people, do you open yourself up or hide your true self? What might be possible reasons for either decision?

Diary 69: Living in the Projects

This student writes, "It's easier to pretend I don't live where I live or see what I see." We all have a need to escape our reality from time to time. Describe a time when you had to escape the reality of your life.

Diary 70: Dyslexia

The writer of this entry explains how technology made it easier to cope with a learning disability. Think of a time when something or someone taught you something that made your schoolwork or life situation easier to deal with. How can you pass those tools on to others with similar problems?

Diary 71: Letter from Miep

Miep Gies inspires this Freedom Writer to write the story of a friend who was shot and killed. Think of the people who have affected your life. Write the story of a person who has had an impact on you and deserves to live on in writing.

Diary 72: Student Editing

This student writes about dealing with a painful truth from her past. Consider your own life. What would you do if given the chance to write your own truth and share it with others? What would inspire you to share your truth? What reservations would you have about making it public?

Diary 73: Abortion

A dark secret returns to haunt this Freedom Writer. Think about choices you have made in the past. Which choices would you change if given the chance? How would that affect your life today?

Diary 74: Catalysts for Change

In this entry, the writer quotes his/her mother having said, "One person can make a difference that can change the whole world." Think of a famous person or someone you know who has changed or is in the process of changing the world and describe their achievement.

Diary 75: Freedom Riders

This Freedom Writer found a sense of purpose in learning about the Freedom Riders, stating, "That purpose is to make a difference and stand up for a cause." Reflect on the world around you. What causes could use your help? Which do you believe in strongly? What will you do to help further those causes?
