Caught in the web of words; James A.H. MURRAY and the Oxford English dictionary, 1979 Women and Dictionary-Making Lindsay Rose Russell, 2018-04-30 Dictionaries are a powerful genre perceived as authoritative and objective records of the language impervious to personal bias But who makes dictionaries shapes both how they are constructed and how they are used Tracing the craft of dictionary making from the fifteenth century to the present day this book explores the vital but little known significance of women and gender in the creation of English language dictionaries Women worked as dictionary patrons collaborators readers compilers and critics while gender ideologies served at turns to prevent secure and veil women s involvements and innovations in dictionary making Combining historical rhetorical and feminist methods this is a monumental recovery of six centuries of women s participation in dictionary making and a robust investigation of how the social life of the genre is influenced by the social expectations of gender Elisabeth Caught in the Web of Words K. M. Murray, 1977 The Making of the Oxford English Dictionary Peter Gilliver, 2016 This book tells the history of the Oxford English Dictionary from its beginnings in the middle of the nineteenth century to the present The author uniquely among historians of the OED is also a practising lexicographer with nearly thirty years experience of working on the Dictionary He has drawn on a wide range of sources including previously unexamined archival material and eyewitness testimony to create a detailed history of the project The book explores the cultural background from which the idea of a comprehensive historical dictionary of English emerged the lengthy struggles to bring this concept to fruition and the development of the book from the appearance of the first printed fascicle in 1884 to the launching of the Dictionary as an online database in 2000 and beyond It also examines the evolution of the lexicographers working methods and provides much information about the people many of them remarkable individuals who have contributed to the project over the last century and a half
