Caves Of God Cappadocia And Its Churches:

Caves of god Spiro Kostof,1989 Caves of God Spiro Kostof,1978-10-01 Cappadocia a province in central Turkey offers the traveler a startling rockscape whose cones pleats and folds conceal hundreds of monasteries and churches carved from the soft porous tuff and used by Christian communities over nearly two millennia for shelter burial and sanctuary This region in the Turkish hinterland is recognized as one of the centers of Byzantine mural painting However numerous hermitages monasteries and independent chapels dating from the seventh century onward reveal it also as one of the most concentrated areas of Eastern monasticism This book serves a double purpose it provides a thorough and lucid introduction to the rockcut churches and monasteries and their painted decorations while it critically examines current scholarship on the monastic environment of Byzantine Cappadocia particularly in regard to the architecture which has been generally neglected by art historians Scooped out rather than constructed this anonymous architecture has its own unique appeal Kostof writes The Cappadocian carver architect was not inhibited by statics or the nature of materials His structure stood a monolith before he started to work on it And he could cut into this monolith quickly effortlessly It might take a single man about a month to carve out a large room of two to three thousand cubic feet Loads and thrusts were negligible One was free to try any structural symbol with little concern for structural safety Cupolas could bubble from flat ceilings or be placed over square bays by means of the most cavalier transition elements No shape need be perfect extemporaneous geometry is everywhere the rule Wall lines sag one half of an arch doesn't quite match the other carefree deviations here and there mark the general outline of the building Following an account of the region its environmental political and religious history the author discusses in detail the building types and painting programs in the context of their creation answering such questions as what was the nature of monasticism in Cappadocia and who were the builders the artists their patrons The author was born and educated in Turkey and his personal knowledge of the monuments is a convincing factor in his handling of chronological and stylistic uncertainties Throughout Kostof's mind's eye never leaves the total environment observing the inseparability of landscape buildings paintings and the ritual that informs them Caves of God Spiro Kostof,1972 Shards of Empire Susan Shwartz,2014-04-01 In the tenth century the center of the world is not Rome but Byzantium a glorious empire upon which the sun never sets Constantinople the center of this mighty dynasty is starting to unravel The great kings and princes the holy city the affluence of the empire will be scattered to the winds Attacked by the Turks on all sides Byzantium looks to its emperor for deliverance Leo Ducas heir to the Byzantine crown must fight for his inheritance but he doesn't truly know who his enemies are Shunned by the citizens of Constantinople Leo flees the city and great works are revealed to him He learns of a realm that falls outside his Christian training a realm of magic and wisdom Church Architecture of Late Antique Northern Mesopotamia Elif Keser Kayaalp,2021 Church Architecture of Late Antique Northern Mesopotamia examines the church architecture of Northern Mesopotamia between the fourth and eighth centuries Keser Kayaalp draws attention to several aspects ranging from the small scale to the large focusing on settlements the variety of plan types the remarkable continuity of the classical tradition in the architectural decoration the heterogeneity of the building techniques patrons imperial motivations and stories that claim and make spaces Employing archaeological and epigraphical material and hagiographical and historical sources a holistic picture of the church architecture of this frontier region emerges encompassing the cities of Nisibis Nusaybin Edessa Sanliurfa Amida Diyarbakir Anastasiopolis Dara Oguz Martyropolis Silvan Constantia Viransehir and the rural Tur Abdin region The period covered spans the last centuries of Byzantine and the first century and a half of Arab rule when the region was on the one hand a stage of war and riven by religious controversies and on the other a dynamic space of cultural interaction Keser Kayaalp provides a regional contribution to the study of the transformation that the Byzantine civilisation underwent in the late antique period and assesses the continuities and changes after the Arab conquest in pursuit of discovering whether one can talk about a church architecture in this period that is specific to the Syrian Orthodox
