

Development Process of Computer-Based Training (CBT)

The computer-Based Training (CBT) execution plan involves a client providing all approved documents, images, videos, and 3D models. The process involves a project manager, QC Lead, instructional design team, and 3D graphic design and content development teams. The project manager gathers client input, executes the project, and delivers the final output. The 3D team creates 3D models to explain procedures and highlight components, while the graphic design team integrates 3D animation, images, videos, and 2D graphic content using approved storyboards and directions. The duration of the CBT is 3 hours per 25 working days.
