Cheran Ralph Leon Beals, 1998 The Cultural Rights Movement Eric J. Bailey, 2010-02-09 This work espouses that though African Americans have come a long way issues such as social economic health educational judicial political cultural and civil rights are of such a critical nature that President Barack Obama must meet them head on and in a manner different from that of mainstream America With an African American in the White House there is no better time for assessing the progress the United States has made in protecting the rights of all its citizens The Cultural Rights Movement Fulfilling the Promise of Civil Rights for African Americans offers such an assessment with an in depth look at the Obama administration s proposed initiatives as they relate to the African American community and a survey of civil rights issues that need to be reexamined in light of Obama s election The Cultural Rights Movement is a well researched powerfully written analysis of why a substantial number of blacks have yet to get their piece of the American dream Coverage includes discriminatory lending practices unfair Congressional redistricting disparities in physician care and health outcomes the low number of black students faculty members and coaches in mainstream universities the phenomenal high rate of blacks being arrested convicted and incarcerated the continual growth of black underemployment and poverty and the near total neglect of the reparations issue Indian Village S.C. Dube, 2017-10-30 Indian Village is widely considered a classic Since its publication over six decades ago the book has received immense acclaim attaining extraordinary success especially as the first book on a single village in post Second World War South Asia Indeed the work represents a key statement of the wider shift from tribe to village in Indian anthropology part of the movement away from studies of isolated groups toward writings on contemporary communities in the sociology of the subcontinent Written in an accessible intimate manner Indian Village needs to be understood today as a flagship endeavour of the social sciences in a young independent India a study that continues to be generously cited including as a model monograph in the disciplines at large

The Handbook of Middle American Indians was assembled and edited at the Middle American Research Institute of Tulane University with the assistance of grants from the National Science Foundation and under the sponsorship of the National Research Council Committee on Latin American Anthropology The Ethnographic Moment Robert Redfield, 2017-09-08

The first fifty years of the twentieth century were a time of ferment in American anthropology. American ethnographic work evolved from the salvage work of professionals affiliated with museums who undertook to document with artifacts and testimony the threatened traditional way of life among the Native American tribes to the establishment of anthropology as a science represented in university departments that sought to describe the ethnographic present of isolated primitive peoples often in distant parts of the world. By the beginning of the 1950s cultural anthropology discovered the peasant. Robert Redfield himself a leading figure in this paradigm shift challenged anthropology's focus on a static model of the isolated primitive community pointing out the dynamic nature of the little communities he studied in Mesoamerica. These were not isolated communities but rather local traditional cultures located well within the sphere of a complex urban culture. In order to distinguish the great tradition deriving from urban centers from the little tradition of a more primitive culture Redfield believed anthropology needed to refer to other disciplines such as theology, philosophy, economics, and sociology. In other words, anthropology had to develop from the collection of material artifacts to a concern with the immaterial realm of values and ideas. This collection of essays and previously unpublished papers The Ethnographic Moment tells the story of a remarkable chapter in Redfield's pioneering efforts on what was then an anthropological frontier. The present volume covers the years from 1952 to 1958, the last of Redfield's life. It focuses solely on his study of peasant communities. At the core of the book is his correspondence with the philosopher-humanist F. G. Friedmann, who played an important role in Redfield's conceptualization of the complex urban-rural continuum that characterizes the peasant's world. The volume also includes an autobiographical introduction by Friedmann that illuminates both his own writings and the humanistic background that motivated his study of peasantry The Publishers' Trade List Annual, 1979 The Socio-economic Context of Fuelwood Use in Small Rural Communities Dennis Harold Wood, Devres, Incorporated, 1980. Report on fuelwood consumption in rural communities of developing countries examines use of firewood and charcoal, role of rural women, economic implications, and social implications of community fuelwood programmes incl. Local level social participation etc. and proposed guidelines to improve such programmes. Bibliography pp 234 to 255 Agrarian Revolt in a Mexican Village Paul Friedrich, 1977-12-15. Agrarian Revolt in a Mexican Village deals with a Tarascan Indian village in southwestern Mexico which between 1920 and 1926 played a precedent-setting role in agrarian reform. As he describes forty years in the history of this small pueblo, Paul Friedrich raises general questions about local politics and agrarian reform that are basic to our understanding of radical change in peasant societies around the world. Of particular interest is his detailed study of the colorful, violent, and psychologically complex leader Primo Tapia, whose biography bears on the theoretical issues of the political middleman and the relation between individual motivation and socioeconomic change Friedrich's evidence includes massive interviewing personal letters observations as an anthropological participant e.g. in fiesta ritual analysis of the politics and other village culture during 1955-56 comparison with other Tarascan villages historical and prehistoric background materials and research in legal and government agrarian archives Newsletter Art Libraries Society, 1969

The Diet and Nutrition of North American and African Tribes Richard H. Furlow, 1962 Journal of Anthropological Research, 1974 Aging, Demography, and Well-being in Latin America Maria D. Alvarez, Otto von Mering, 1989

The Manner Born Lauren Dundes, 2003 In addition the authors explore the humoral medical tradition used in birthing the possible influence of cultural practices on Sudden Infant Death Syndrome SIDS customs and beliefs regarding breastfeeding weaning swaddling and finally a sociological perspective on early infant behaviour This book should be valuable for courses in medical sociology and anthropology public health or behavioural sciences psychology and psychiatry and for pre-med students CAC-E, English Inter-American Cultural Council.
