Dilemmas Coping With Environmental Problems:

Dilemmas Graham Bennett, 2019-03-21 First published in 1992 Why are environmental problems problems Usually says Graham Bennett because the interests of the polluter are incompatible with the preservation of the environment A hunter of whales no matter how concerned about their decline will always need to kill again and a government no matter how worried about the effects of its polluting industry will still fight to keep it going In this fascinating book the author takes six examples as far apart as the Rhine and the Arctic as Tennessee and the Gulf of Genoa to illustrate his point In doing so he shows up the dilemmas facing those who are fighting to improve matters He demonstrates the degree of duplicity exercised by those in power in order to preserve their interests but he also shows how often environmental problems emerge simply because of muddle These riveting stories describe not just the well known effects of pollution or environmental destruction but the ways in which the problems arise and the circumstances and complexity of the questions to be resolved Whatever the concern the preservation of the Bowhead Whale or dumping salt in the Rhine this book is a must for every environmentalist Applied

Ethics in a Troubled World E. Morscher, O. Neumaier, Peter M. Simons, 2012-12-06 During the last two decades applied ethics has not only developed into one of the most important philosophical disciplines but has also differentiated into so many subdisciplines that it is becoming increasingly difficult to survey it A much needed overview is provided by the eighteen contributions to this volume in which internationally renowned experts deal with central questions of environmental ethics bioethics and medical ethics professional and business ethics social political and legal ethics as well as with the aims and foundations of applied ethics in general Thanks to a philosophical introduction and selected bibliographical references added to each chapter the book is very well suited as a basis for courses in applied ethics It is directed not only to philosophers and to ethicists from other disciplines but to scientists in general and to all people who are interested in the rational discussion of moral principles and their application to concrete problems in the sciences and in everyday life Environment, Society and International Relations Gabriela Kütting, 2013-02-01 Written in an accessible and lively style this ground breaking text marries a critique of current remedies towards environmental problems to original and viable alternatives This text adopts an eco centric rather than a traditional environmental management perspective to focuses on the key issues such as The effectiveness of international agreements in solving environmental problems the role of the structures and constraints within which these agreements operate Globalization and Environmental Challenges Hans Günter Brauch, Úrsula Oswald

Spring, Czesław Mesjasz, John Grin, Pál Dunay, Navnita Chadha Behera, Béchir Chourou, Patricia Kamari-Mbote, P. H. Liotta, 2008-01-23 Put quite simply the twin impacts of globalization and environmental degradation pose new security dangers and concerns In this new work on global security thinking 91 authors from five continents and many disciplines from science and practice assess the worldwide reassessment of the meaning of security triggered by the end of the Cold War and globalization as well as the multifarious impacts of global environmental change in the early 21st century The EU's Decision Traps Gerda Falkner, 2011-05-12 Fritz W Scharpf's renowned model of the joint decision trap suggests that the requirements of nearly unanimous decisions in the EU's Council of Ministers combined with conflicting preferences among member governments will systematically limit the problem solving effectiveness of European policies. However, certain conditions have significantly changed in the 25 years since the theory was first posited. In particular, the unanimity rule has been replaced by qualified majority voting in most issue areas and successive rounds of enlargement have augmented the diversity of member state interests and preferences. This volume examines the continued relevance of the model. It presents a comparative study on the differential politics in EU policies. Looking at the political dynamics in an array of EU activities, it analyses breakthroughs as well as stalemates and asks why leaps occur in some areas whilst blockages characterise others. The dynamics that allow the EU to escape various forms of decision trap are analysed in depth, including those suggested by rationalist theorists, supranational hierarchical steering, treaty base games and arena shifting, and those suggested by constructivist approaches, socialisation. The volume concludes that when the EU is confronted with a high degree of problem pressure in a given issue area, these mechanisms will often not be available because most remain outside politicians' immediate grasp. Routledge Library Editions: Environmental Policy Various, 2021-06-23 The 11 volumes in this set, originally published between 1982 and 1995, draw together research by leading academics in the area of environmental policy and provide a rigorous examination of related key issues. The volumes examine international policy impact assessment and future environmental planning. This set will be of particular interest to students of Environmental Studies. IBSS: Political Science: 1992 British Library of Political and Economic Science, 1993 The IBSS is the essential tool for librarians, university departments, research institutions and any public or private institution whose work requires access to up-to-date and comprehensive knowledge of the social sciences. Environmental Education and Information, 1992 Social and Political Sciences of the Environment Pieter Leroy, Nicolaas Johannes Maria Nelissen, 1999 The Netherlands is regarded as a leading country in the field of environmental sciences and its environmental policy is widely considered as sophisticated. But what do political and social sciences contribute to this policy? What have Dutch political and social scientists achieved with regard to environmental problems and where do they stand in comparison to what is going on internationally? The authors give an overview of three decades of research by Dutch political and social scientists of the environment. Within that legacy, they distinguish studies concerning the structural basis of environmental studies as well as research into environmental attitudes and behaviour, environmental communication, the environmental movement and environmental policy. They identify the predominant research issues and those topics that have hitherto been relatively neglected. Environment, 1992 Trade, Sustainable Development and the Environment Maria Isolda P. Guevara, Centre for Trade Policy and Law, 1995 To facilitate reference entries in this bibliography, they are classified under the following major topics: issues and perspectives related to trade, sustainable development and the environment, trade, environment and international organisations such as the

International Monetary Fund World Bank United Nations and multinational corporations environmental agreements laws policies regulations and instruments the environment and trading arrangements such as the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade the environment and key sectors with a focus on agriculture forestry and energy and theoretical analytical and methodological issues concerning environment and development In each classification entries are arranged alphabetically by author Some entries are repeated in different categories if they are pertinent to more than one category Local Governance Around the World Henry Teune, 1995 Multinational Corporations and the Environment Joan Nordquist, 1994 Uncertainty and Environmental Policy, 2000 European Integration and Environmental Policy

J. D. Lieferrink, Philip Lowe, A. P. J. Mol, 1993 In the past two decades environmental policy has emerged as a major field of action in the European Community It is recognised that the liberalisation and integration of the European market should be matched by common environmental measures The process of environmental policy making in the Community is characterised by a delicate interplay of political agendas institutional relations and regulatory cultures at national and transnational levels This interplay is the subject of the present book Successful Environmental Policy Martin Jänicke, Helmut Weidner, 1995

Environmental Law and Policy in the European Union and the United States Randall Baker, 1997-11-20

Authorities in the fields of environmental and international law and policy political science environmental technology and public administration compare and contrast the ways in which the United States and the European Union handle similar environmental issues The contributors critically analyze the influence of culture and history on the way apparently similar developed democracies handle the same problems they examine the center state relationship as it applies to EU member countries in contrast to states within the United States they look at the challenge of transboundary international and global environmental problems and how these relate to the still emerging geopolitical reconfigurations involved in such structures as NAFTA and the EU and they examine how transnational resources are handled in the North American and EU contexts Randall Baker has assembled leading experts who examine significant issues for policymakers and environmentalists in North America and Western Europe Policy Studies Journal, 2000 Sourcebook on Sustainable Development

International Institute for Sustainable Development, 1992 This directory brings together important material from a wide variety of relevant sources beginning with a listing and description of about 70 of the principal international organizations active in the field of sustainable development It covers general publications and guidebooks economy and ecology social and community issues and solutions environment and natural resources investment for sustainable development and regional and country reports Information is also given on audio visual productions and resources computer networks and conferencing systems and online databases A glossary is included The appendices provide detail on computer technology and practices

Geography Into the Twenty-First Century Eleanor M. Rawlings, Richard A. Daugherty, 1996-05 This volume contains essays which describe key developments in the areas of human physical and environmental geography over the 20th century
