Building Tomorrow's Biomedical Workforce: Evaluation of How Evidence-Based Training Programs Align Skill Development and Career Awareness with a Broad Array of Professions Adriana Bankston, Rebekah L. Layton, Audra Van Wart, 2025-08-27 Building the future STEM workforce requires robust federal investments to support the next generation of innovators as well as systemic changes to enable graduate and postdoctoral researchers to transition with confidence into the biomedical workforce This effort involves the transformation of the biomedical research enterprise and training environment at all levels but especially at the predoctoral and postdoctoral levels Innovative initiatives in education and training as well as career and professional development of biomedical trainees are necessary to build upon the robust biomedical workforce of today and create and sustain a diverse innovative and highly trained biomedical workforce of tomorrow. An important aspect of supporting the biomedical workforce relates to changes within training and the research enterprise with opportunities for reimagining what STEM education should look like at different levels including providing agency for junior scientists in the field. The future of the field should focus on inclusivity supporting trainees from different backgrounds and with diverse perspectives including but not limited to intersectional identities in race ethnicity gender sexual orientation first generation status and international talent in STEM. This requires critical policy changes in order to support the transition of biomedical research professionals into the labor market.

Impact of Coordination Mechanism on the Performance of Virtual Teams in Agile Software Development Projects Ali Nazari, 2023-10-09. Doctoral Thesis Dissertation from the year 2023 in the subject Computer Science Commercial Information Technology grade A language English abstract. The objective of this research is to ascertain and recognize the factors that make up the coordination mechanism of virtual development teams and provide a structural and interpretive model of the relationships between these factors and evaluate the influence of these factors on themselves and the performance of virtual development teams of agile software development projects was done. Presently the deployment of virtual development teams is regarded as an indispensable component of software production and its associated sectors with its usage escalating daily. World changing occurrences and the prevalence of multiple pandemics such as Covid 19 have further accelerated the necessity and adoption rate of virtual development teams. Therefore a substantial portion of the strategic employment policies in corporations and organizations are based on the framework of employing virtual development teams and remote workforce. Given the advancements in the usage of virtual development teams especially within the software development and production sector addressing the issues and challenges associated with their deployment has evolved into a critical and engaging matter for businesses and industries. Identifying and managing key internal and external elements influencing the performance of these teams and formulating and executing a consistent coordination system can engender the essential alignment amongst various human and organizational factors. In this study these considerations are presented as an integrated coordination system offering businesses and industries assistance in enhancing the performance of their virtual development teams.
