Offner,Theodore A. Wilson,2000 In this collection senior scholars explore the transition from war to uneasy peace how and why the war ended as it did whether a different resolution was possible and if the ensuing Cold War was inevitable Army ,1994 Forced Confrontation Christopher E. Mauriello,2017-08-04 During the final weeks of World War II the American army discovered multiple atrocity sites and mass graves containing the dead bodies of Jews slave laborers POWs and other victims of Nazi genocide and mass murder Instead of simply reburying these victims American Military Government carried out a series of highly ritualized forced confrontations towards German civilians centered on the dead bodies themselves The Americans forced nearby German townspeople to witness the atrocity site disinter the bodies place them in coffins parade these bodies through the town and lay them to rest in town cemeteries At the conclusion of the ceremony in the cemetery in the presence of dead bodies the Americans accused the assembled German civilians and Germany as whole of collective guilt for the crimes of the Nazi regime This landmark study places American forced confrontations into the emerging field of dead body politics or necropolitics Drawing on the theoretical work of Katherine Verdery and others the book argues that forced confrontation represented a politicization of dead bodies aimed at the ideological goals of accusing Germans and Germany of collective guilt for the war Nazism and Nazi genocide These were not top down Allied policy decisions Instead they were initiated and carried out at the field command level and by ordinary U S field officers and soldiers appalled and angered by the level of violence and killing they discovered in small German towns in April and May 1945 This study of the experience of war and forced confrontations around dead bodies compels readers to rethink the nature of the American soldier fighting in Germany in 1945 and the evolution practice and purpose of American political and ideological ideas of German collective guilt

Yoder,2024-01-01

Instrumentalization of the wartime past for political gain is the subject of this study of eleven World War II commemorations Using a comparative conceptually original approach Yoder identifies the actors who manipulate memory surrounding wartime anniversaries such as the bombing of Dresden and ceremonies to honor fallen soldiers and fascist collaborators The cases of memory contestation span three geographic regions Western Europe Eastern Europe and Russia recognizing that each developed distinctive interpretations of the war and different patterns of memory politics This empirically rich study reveals the grievances that motivate memory challengers and their strategies for shaping the commemoration discourses and rituals The memory challengers toolkit includes varieties of emotional manipulation subtle distortion revisionism and full scale denial The study finds that while there are differences in context and strategy across cases and regions there are also areas of convergence Moreover a memory challenge in one country can spill over into others with serious consequences for foreign relations While World War II Memory and Contested Commemorations in Europe and Russia deals with debates and narratives about events in the last century its focus is on power persuasion and identity in the present     Mamie Doud
