Royal Spectacle Ian Walter Radforth, 2004-01-01 In 1860 Queen Victoria sent her eighteen year old son Albert Edward Prince of Wales on a goodwill mission to Canada and the United States The young heir apparent later King Edward VII had not yet gained his reputation as a fashion setter and rake but he nevertheless attracted enormous crowds both in Canada where it was the first royal visit and in the United States Civic leaders hosted the visitor in princely style decorating their towns with triumphal arches and organizing royal entries public processions openings and grand balls In Royal Spectacle Ian Radforth recreates these displays of civic pride by making use of the many public and private accounts of them and he analyses the heated controversies the visit provoked When communities rushed to honour the prince and put themselves on display social divisions inadvertently became part of the spectacle seen by the prince and described by visiting journalists Street theatre reached a climax in Kingston where the Prince of Wales could not disembark from his steamer because of the defiance of thousands of Orangemen dressed in their brilliant regalia and waiving their banners Contemporary depictions of the tour provide an opportunity to interpret the cultural values and social differences that shaped Canada during the Confederation decade and the United States on the eve of the Civil War Topics explored include Orange Green conflict First Nations and the politics of public display contested representations of race and gender the tourist gaze and meanings of crown and empire An original and erudite study Royal Spectacle contributes greatly to historical research on public spectacle colonial and national identities Britishness in the Atlantic world and the history of the monarchy

Samuel Bronfman Michael Robert Marrus,1991 The irascible son of a Jewish pioneer from Czarist Russia whose business acumen built an international company renowned for the quality of its products Samuel Bronfman s father failed as a wheat farmer and then found success selling frozen fish firewood and horses At this point young Sam observed to his father The bar makes more profits than we do Instead of selling horses we should be selling the drinks And thus began what was to become the Seagram whiskey empire Sam s insight and timing were right as Canada and especially the United States were coming under the influence of the temperance movement While legend often places Sam in the thick of Prohibition era bootlegging and rum running in fact he built for the long term and kept his operations within both the law and its loopholes as he supplied American bootleggers Sam demonstrated his marketing genius by insisting on quality in a business notorious for cutting corners and thereby set the standard for the industry in the decades to follow Sam s success in penetrating the American market was such that after Prohibition his competitors lobbied the federal government for protection While Samuel Bronfman is a classic rags to riches tale it is also the story of a Jew who remained in many ways outside business and social establishments even after becoming internationally famous Commuting every week between his Montreal and New York office his was a private life centered on his family and their home in Montreal and summer places such as Tarrytown New York In the 1950s Sam under instructions from his daughter Phyllis Lambert commissioned Mies van der Rohe to design a new corporate headquarters the Seagram buildingat 375 Park Avenue a landmark on the New York City skyline As a leader of the Jewish community Sam was elected president of the Canadian Jewish Congress in 1939 and went on to organize financial aid to the fledgling state of Israel beginning decades long involvement in Jewish affairs and support for the Jewish state

Marching as to War Pierre Berton,2001 Canada s twentieth century can be divided roughly into two halves All the wars and all the unnecessary battles in which Canadian youth was squandered belong to the first from the autumn of 1899 to the summer of 1953 From the mid 1950s on Canada has concerned itself not with war but with peace The first war of the century which took Canadian soldiers to South Africa and the last which sent them to Korea bracket the bookends on the shelf of history They have a good deal in common with these two minor conflicts whose chronicles pale when compared to the bloodbaths of the two world wars Canada s wartime days are long past and for many the scars of war have healed Vimy has been manicured clean its pockmarked slopes softened by a green mantle of Canadian pines Dieppe has reverted to a resort town its beaches long since washed free of Canadian blood Nowadays Canadians are proud of their role as Peacekeepers from which they have gained a modicum of international acclaim the nation has always craved with precious little blood wasted in the process In this monumental work Pierre Berton brings Canadian history to life once again relying on a host of sources including newspaper accounts and first hand reports to tell the story of these four wars through the eyes of the privates in the trenches the generals at the front and the politicians and families back home By profiling the interwar years Berton traces how one war led to the next and how the country was changed in the process Prince Charming Goes West S. M. Evans,1993 This is the fascinating story of the E P Ranch owned for 43 years by His Royal Highness Edward Prince of Wales The ranch served as a bond between him and the people of Canada and its development was closely bound up with the history of ranching in the foothills of southern Alberta While in Alberta in 1919 Edward spent some time on the Bar U Ranch near High River On his return eastward from Vancouver he made arrangements to purchase a small ranch close to the Bar U Edward often remarked that it was the only property he owned The original ranch was transformed into a centre for breeding excellence that had international significance The onset of the Great Depression in Canada however and the waning interest of Prince Edward led to a downscaling of activities during the 1930s The 1950s saw the ranch revitalized with new capital Once more it was to be used as a link between the pedigree bloodstock of the United Kingdom and the farms and ranches of western Canada The management of this growing enterprise proved to be too unwieldy to enable it to grasp the real business opportunities that existed and it was still costing the Prince money when he reluctantly sold it to a local rancher in 1962 Over 40 maps and illustrations were commissioned or borrowed from the Glenbow Archives Calgary and the National Archives Ottawa CM ,1991 This Island in Time John Kalbfleisch,2008 This account of spies zealots royal tourists and people on the brink of death provides a unique and extraordinary history of Montreal From the city s founding nearly four centuries ago down to the present day an astonishing range of people have trod its streets Priests and princes heroes and the humble financial wizards and outright fools all have their stories to be told Canadiana ,1990 Royal Dress Valerie Cumming,1989 America, History and Life ,2005 Article abstracts and citations of reviews and dissertations covering the United States and Canada
