De Grot:

Quaternary Palaeontology and Archaeology of Sumatra Julien Louys, Paul C.H. Albers, Alexandra A.E. van der Geer, 2024-04-04 The Indonesian island of Sumatra is part of a chain of islands making up Sunda and the Malay Archipelago. Sumatra is one of the largest islands in the world, housing unique and globally important tropical rainforests, a diverse array of rare plants and magnificent animals, and a population of 60 million who speak a range of Austronesian languages. As beautifully exemplified in this volume, Sumatra is a place which preserves a distinct and long-term human history. Studies of which began in earnest with Eugene Dubois's explorations in the 1880s to find our ancestral missing link. Archaeological investigation of megaliths and historic empires carry on to this day. A range of topics are explored here, including palaeontological study of fossil mammals and their environments, the routes that Homo erectus took during their wanderings across Indonesia, and the growth and development of societies and empires in more recent periods. This exemplary volume presents a revised view of the history of palaeontological and archaeological research, as well as new ground-breaking field research laying the foundation for future research on the biological and cultural evolution of one of the most majestic islands of the world. Professor Michael Petraglia, Director of the Australian Research Centre for Human Evolution, Griffith University.

Contrastive Studies in Construction Grammar Hans C. Boas, 2010-11-11 The papers in this volume provide a contrastive application of Construction Grammar. By referencing a well-described constructional phenomenon in English, each paper provides a solid foundation for describing and analyzing its constructional counterpart in another language. This approach shows that the semantic description, including discourse, pragmatic, and functional factors of an English construction, can be regarded as a first step towards a tertium comparationis that can be employed for comparing and contrasting the formal properties of constructional counterparts in other languages. Thus, the meaning pole of constructions should be regarded as the primary basis for comparisons of constructions across languages; the form pole is only secondary. This volume shows that constructions are viable descriptive and analytical tools for cross-linguistic comparisons that make it possible to capture both language-specific idiosyncratic properties as well as cross-linguistic generalizations. web jun 15 2021 l on n étudie pas le pacs en 2021 comme on l étudiait en 1999 pour la raison évidente que le régime a évolué en plus de 20 ans s il n est pas nécessaire de retracer les évolutions du pacs il faut a minima en exposer les évolutions les plus importantes et déterminer si l on en fait une étude statique à l instant t ou dynamique en
