De Hollandse Waterline:

Sustainable Regeneration of Former Military Sites Samer Bagaeen, Celia Clark, 2016-06-10 Sustainable Regeneration of Former Military Sites is the first book to analyze a profound land use change happening all over the world the search for sustainable futures for property formerly dedicated to national defense now becoming redundant disposed of and redeveloped The new military necessity for rapid flexible response requires quite different physical resources from the massive fixed positions of the Cold War with huge tracts of land and buildings looking for new uses The transition from military to civilian life for these complex contaminated isolated heritage laden and often contested sites in locations ranging from urban to remote is far from easy There is very little systematic analysis of what follows base closures leaving communities governments developers and planners experimenting with untested land use configurations partnership structures and financing strategies With twelve case studies drawn from different countries many written by those involved Sustainable Regeneration of Former Military Sites enables the diverse stakeholders in these projects to discover unique opportunities for reuse and learn from others experiences of successful regeneration

Adaptive Strategies for Water Heritage Carola Hein, 2019-10-18 This Open Access book building on research initiated by scholars from the Leiden Delft Erasmus Centre for Global Heritage and Development CHGD and ICOMOS Netherlands presents multidisciplinary research that connects water to heritage Through twenty one chapters it explores landscapes cities engineering structures and buildings from around the world It describes how people have actively shaped the course form and function of water for human settlement and the development of civilizations establishing socio economic structures policies and cultures a rich world of narratives laws and practices and an extensive network of infrastructure buildings and urban form The book is organized in five thematic sections that link practices of the past to the design of the present and visions of the future part I discusses drinking water management part II addresses water use in agriculture part III explores water management for land reclamation and defense part IV examines river and coastal planning and part V focuses on port cities and waterfront regeneration Today the many complex systems of the past are necessarily the basis for new systems that both preserve the past and manage water today policy makers and designers can work together to recognize and build on the traditional knowledge and skills that old structure embody This book argues that there is a need for a common agenda and an integrated policy that addresses the preservation transformation and adaptive reuse of historic water related structures Throughout it imagines how such efforts will help us develop sustainable futures for cities landscapes and bodies of water
