Dead Emcee Scrolls The Lost Teachings Of Hip-hop:

The Dead Emcee Scrolls Saul Williams, 2006-02-01 In the underground labyrinths of New York City's subway system beneath the third rail of a long forgotten line Saul Williams discovered scrolls of aged yellowish brown paper rolled tightly into a can of spray paint His quest to decipher this mystical ancient text resulted in a primal understanding of the power hip hop has to teach us about ourselves and the universe around us Now for the first time Saul Williams shares with the world the wonder revealed to him by the Dead Emcee Scrolls I have paraded as a poet for years now In the process of parading I may have actually become one but that's another story another book This book is a book that I have been waiting to finish since 1995 This is the book that finished me The story I am about to tell may sound fantastic It may anger some of you who have followed my work You may feel that you have come to know me over the years and in some cases you have but in others well this is a confession

The Dead Emcee Scrolls Saul Williams, 2006-02 Presents a collection of darkly humorous poetic works that encompass a man's discovery of an ancient scroll hidden beneath a graffiti masterpiece in an abandoned subway line a finding that gives way to a surprising message

The Intertextuality of Black American Spoken Word and African Griot Tradition Tammie Jenkins, 2025-01-15 This book analyzes how two mainstream poets reimagined history politics and the arts to create counternarratives that challenged social narratives across time enabling Black American spoken word poets to communicate and build reciprocal relationships with their listening audiences today across intersections of race gender and class

Hip-Hop Redemption Ralph Basui Watkins, Ralph C. Watkins, 2011-10 A sociologist and pop culture expert offers a balanced engagement of hip hop and rap music showing God's presence in the music and the message

American Poetry in Performance Tyler Hoffman, 2013-05-29 American Performance Poetry is the first book to trace a comprehensive history of performance poetry in America from Whitman through the rap meets poetry scene and to show how the performance of poetry is bound up with the performance of identity and nationality in the modern period This book will be a meaningful contribution both to the field of American poetry studies and to the fields of cultural and performance studies as it focuses on poetry that refuses the status of fixed aesthetic object and in its variability performs versions of race class gender and sexuality both on and off the page Relating the performance of poetry to shifting political and cultural ideologies in the United States Hoffman argues that the vocal aspect of public poetry possesses or has been imagined to possess the ability to help construct both national and subaltern communities In doing so American Performance Poetry explores public poets confrontations with emergent sound recording and communications technologies as those confrontations shape their mythologies of the spoken word and their corresponding notions about America and Americanness

Identity Formation in Globalizing Contexts Christina Higgins, 2011-10-28 The volume explores how new millennium globalization mediates language learning and identity construction It seeks to theorize how global flows are creating new identity options for language learners and to consider the implications for language learning teaching and use

To frame the chapters theoretically the volume asserts that new identities are developing because of the increasingly interconnected set of global scapes which impact language learners lives Part 1 focuses on language learners in trans national contexts exploring their identity formation when they shuttle between cultures and when they create new communities of fellow transnationals Part 2 examines how learners come to develop intercultural selves as a consequence of experiencing global contact zones when they sojourn to new contexts for study and work Part 3 investigates how learners construct new identities in the mediascapes of popular culture and cyberspace where they not only consume but also produce new globalized identities Through case studies narrative analysis and ethnography the volume examines identity construction among learners of English French Japanese and Swahili in Canada England France Hong Kong Tanzania and the United States
