De Fuga In Persecutione:

De Fuga in Persecutione Tertullian, 2018-08-18 As persecutions in increasing number threaten us so the more are we called on to give earnest thought to the question of how faith ought to receive them and the duty of carefully considering it concerns you no less who no doubt by not accepting the Comforter the guide to all truth have as was natural opposed us hitherto in regard to other questions also We have therefore applied a methodical treatment too to your inquiry as we see that we must first come to a decision as to how the matter stands in regard to persecution itself whether it comes on us from God or from the devil that with the less difficulty we may get on firm ground as to our duty to meet it for of everything one's knowledge is clearer when it is known from whom it has its origin It is enough indeed to lay it down in bar of all besides that nothing happens without the will of God But lest we be diverted from the point before us we shall not by this deliverance at once give occasion to the other discussions if one make answer Therefore evil and sin are both from God the devil henceforth and even we ourselves are entirely free The question in hand is persecution With respect to this let me in the meantime say that nothing happens without God's will on the ground that persecution is especially worthy of God and so to speak requisite for the approving to wit or if you will the rejection of His professing servants For what is the issue of persecution what other result comes of it but the approving and rejecting of faith in regard to which the Lord will certainly sift His people De

Fuga in Persecutione Tertullian, 2004-06 It beseems us better to retain our position in submission to the will of God than to flee at our own will Rutilius a saintly martyr after having oftentimes fled from persecution from place to place nay having bought security from danger as he thought by money was notwithstanding the complete security he had as he thought provided for himself at last unexpectedly seized and being brought before the magistrate was put to the torture and cruelly mangled a punishment I believe for his fleeing and thereafter he was consigned to the flames and thus paid to the mercy of God the suffering which he had shunned What else did the Lord mean to show us by this example but that we ought not to flee from persecution because it avails us nothing if God disapprove Tertullian - de Fuga in Persecutione Quintus

Tertullianus, 2016-02-10 As persecutions in increasing number threaten us so the more are we called on to give earnest thought to the question of how faith ought to receive them and the duty of carefully considering it concerns you no less who no doubt by not accepting the Comforter the guide to all truth have as was natural opposed us hitherto in regard to other questions also We have therefore applied a methodical treatment too to your inquiry as we see that we must first come to a decision as to how the matter stands in regard to persecution itself whether it comes on us from God or from the devil that with the less difficulty we may get on firm ground as to our duty to meet it for of everything one's knowledge is clearer when it is known from whom it has its origin It is enough indeed to lay it down in bar of all besides that nothing happens without the will of God But lest we be diverted from the point before us we shall not by this deliverance at once give occasion to the other discussions if one make answer Therefore evil and sin are both from God the devil henceforth and even we ourselves
