The Dynamics of Innovation Klaus Brockhoff, Alok K. Chakrabarti, Jürgen Hauschildt, 1999-04-28 Jorg Bensinger a group head of Audi corporation's R D department had been waiting for long to find a chance to advertise his idea of a four wheel drive for passenger cars to one of the board members. Favorable experiences had been collected in drive tests with the Itis a jeep like car developed for use in the German army. The experiences showed extremely good performance on icy roads and in snow. Bensinger's chance came in February of 1977 when he could talk to Ferdinand Piech then R D vice president of Audi and a technology buff. At this time Audi wasn't quite considered as a technological leader in the public. Technology based innovations were expected from Mercedes or Porsche by many customers. Piech, Bensinger and others sensed that introducing the four wheel drive to passenger cars could initiate a strategic change. Under great secrecy development work and prototype construction were commissioned. One obstacle seemed to be space requirements for the gear box. Hans Nedvidek former race track engineer in the Mercedes team was assigned to the team and he developed an ingenious solution to the problem. It took until September of 1977 until other board members were informed and after some rallying the board found a consensus in the next month to authorize further development steps for a four wheel drive car. However Audi is a subsidiary of Volkswagen Corp. The accord of the much bigger mother had to be secured.
