Challenge Of Attachment For Caregiving:

The Challenge of Attachment for Caregiving Dorothy Heard, Brian Lake, 1997 The Challenge of Attachment for Caregiving describes a theoretical model for the development of caregiving that complements and also extends attachment theory The model highlights the conditions under which adult caregivers can remain in a state of arrested development impairing their own ability to give care and resulting in attachment problems for those who seek care from them It shows how insecure attachment in childhood and adolescence impedes the development of caregiving and how in times of crisis even securely attached individuals need appropriate support in order to sustain their capacity to give effective care Constructing a systemic model of the self the authors place the instinctive systems for caregiving and careseeking attachment within a theory that relates them to other systems of the self such as the systems for sharing interests sexuality and for self defence The model describes the interplay between these goal corrected behavioural systems Because it includes the defensive mechanisms and strategies which an individual values most it is particularly helpful to the therapist in understanding the interpersonal processes between people who are seeking to influence each other s behaviour It is presented in a form that enables the therapist to formulate hypotheses about a client s predicament and their way of relating to the therapist and then explore and test these hypotheses in the course of therapy Drawing on many years experience as clinicians and researchers Dorothy Heard and Brian Lake explore in depth an aspect of human development which has profound implications for our future survival Presenting its own challenge to both theory and practice this book offers students and practitioners a new perspective on attachment Developmental Psychopathology, Volume 1 Dante Cicchetti, Donald J.
