Placental Politics Christine Taitano DeLisle, 2022-01-06 From 1898 until World War II U.S. imperial expansion brought significant numbers of white American women to Guam primarily as wives to naval officers stationed on the island. Indigenous Chamoru women engaged with navy wives in a range of settings and they used their relationships with American women to forge new forms of social and political power. As Christine Taitano DeLisle explains much of the interaction between these women occurred in the realms of health care, midwifery, child care, and education. DeLisle focuses specifically on the pattern of Indigenous nurse-midwives who served Chamoru families. Though they showed strong interest in modern delivery practices and other accoutrements of American modernity under U.S. naval hegemony, the pattern and other Chamoru women never abandoned deeply held Indigenous beliefs, values, and practices, especially those associated with inafa maolek, a code of behavior through which individual, collective, and environmental balance, harmony, and well-being were stewarded and maintained. DeLisle uses her evidence to argue for a placental politics, a new conceptual paradigm for Indigenous women's political action. Drawing on oral histories, letters, photographs, military records, and more, DeLisle reveals how the entangled histories of Chamoru and white American women make us rethink the cultural politics of U.S. imperialism and the emergence of new Indigenous identities.
