Chandigarh In Search Of An Identity By Kalia Ravi:

Chandigarh Ravi Kalia, 1987 In 1949 the Indian government created a clean slate on which to plan design and build a totally new city to serve as the seat of the Punjab government and to replace the ancient traditional city of Lahore which had been lost to Pakistan That city was Chandigarh the most visible planned city in India and the present capital of Punjab and Haryana Kalia provides a history of the planning and development of Chandigarh focusing on the major figures involved Nehru Albert Mayer Charles Edouard Jeanneret popularly known as Le Corbusier and the husband and wife team of Edwin Maxwell Fry and Jane Beverly Drew Kalia unravels the fascinating combination of practical politics personal ambitions of both politicians and planners and the high ideals of Nehru and Le Corbusier Hopes ran high for this planned city but from the beginning the emphasis was too much on designing buildings ignoring traditional economic and social issues Finally Chandigarh turned out to be a designed city not a planned one Tradition and social tension have flown in the face of the master plan

Colonizing, Decolonizing, and Globalizing Kolkata Siddhartha Sen, 2025-10-01 Colonizing Decolonizing and Globalizing Kolkata offers an extended analysis of the architecture and urban planning of Kolkata from the earliest days of colonialism through independence and on into the twenty first century all set in the larger context of Indian cities architecture and urban planning What Siddhartha Sen shows is the transformation of a colonial city into a Marxist one and ongoing attempts to further transform Kolkata into a global city Richly illustrated the book carefully situates architecture design and urban planning within Kolkata's political economy and social milieu

Architecture, Power, and National Identity Lawrence J. Vale, Professor Urban Studies and Planning Lawrence J Vale, 1992-01-01 Explores parliamentary complexes in capital cities on six continents showing how the buildings that house national government institutions are products of the political and cultural balance of power within pluralist societies

One Idea, Many Plans Sanjeev Vidyarthi, 2015-02-11 Planners tend to promote formal plans as the only game in town while diverse efforts of urban actors shape our cities Tracking the development of American neighborhood unit concept in independent India's planning practice and literature from the national level policies to on the ground applications in the city of Jaipur Vidyarthi explains how a host of actors including neighborhood residents squatters politicians and developers made different kinds of plans that assimilated the design concept in line with their practical concerns and cultural preferences creating unique variants of neighborhood urbanism over time One Idea Many Plans counters misguided characterization of these unforeseen efforts as unauthorized by state authorities It shows how the frequently informal and tacit plans were neither arbitrary actions nor aimless subversions but purposeful future oriented efforts that shaped the envisaged sociality and spatiality of Indian cities in more meaningful ways than the official master plans promoting planned neighborhoods Carefully illustrating the different kinds of plans local actors use to guide incremental adaptation improvement and investment Vidyarthi offers insights about how we might improve formal plan making Scholars students and professional practitioners interested in different regions of the global south would find these lessons useful as a new generation of city design ideas like sustainability and new urbanism gain traction in an increasingly globalized World

Messy Urbanism Manish Chalana, Jeffrey Hou, 2016-06-01 Seemingly messy and chaotic the landscapes and urban life of cities in Asia possess an order and hierarchy that often challenges understanding and appreciation With contributions by a cross disciplinary group of authors Messy Urbanism Understanding the Other Cities of Asia examines a range of cases in Asia to explore the social and institutional politics of urban informality and the contexts in which this messiness emerges or is constructed The book brings a distinct perspective to the broader patterns of informal urban orders and processes as well as their interplay with formalized systems and mechanisms It also raises questions about the production of cities cityscapes and citizenship Messy Urbanism will appeal to professionals students and scholars in the fields of urban studies architecture landscape architecture planning and policy as well as Asian studies The rubric of messy urbanism is a productive antidote to the binaries that have limited a productive discussion about urbanism in Asia This book is a significant contribution in understanding the inherent nature of the built environments in aspiring democracies an emergent urbanism that seamlessly embraces the incremental temporal and ephemeral as given conditions in the formation of Asian cities Rahul Mehrotra Architect Professor of Urban Design and Planning Harvard University This book is of a high quality with multiple examples from Hong Kong and China The authors have covered the topic admirably and I expect the book to attract a wide readership Vinit Mukhija Associate Professor and Vice Chair of Urban Planning UCLA

Modern Asian Design D.J. Huppatz, 2018-02-22 Modern Asian Design provides a comprehensive introduction to the development of Asian design in the modern period both tracing historical threads and offering a theoretical framework within which to chart the history of design in Asia Rather than a singular Asian history this book presents a series of studies centred on trade routes colonial relationships regional networks and cross cultural exchanges Modern Asian Design builds on existing resources beyond design history in an effort to map the field focusing particularly on relations between Asia and the West and also across Asian design cultures Opening with a brief overview of trade and exchange networks in the 17th and 18th centuries the bulk of this study comprises analysis of the development of modern design in Asia during the later 19th and early 20th centuries a period of rapid modernisation The book s final two chapters bring these central ideas into a contemporary and highly relevant context Casablanca Chandigarh Tom Avermaete, Maristella Casciato, Mirko Zardini, 2014 This book documents two complementary urban realities that have played a fundamental role in the imagination definition and redefinition of the twentieth century modern city Shifting away from an understanding of architecture as the construction of monumental masterpieces the texts collected here assemble the narratives behind the public spaces housing and social facilities in these two cities where modern plans have proven unexpectedly resilient and adaptable over time This perspective is reinforced through visual contributions by Yto Barrada and Takashi Homma two photographers especially invested in capturing everyday urban life In a world marked by decolonization and Cold War politics Casablanca and Chandigarh appear simultaneously as exponents of and countercurrents to modernization and its development perspectives The book s three chapters set the context for reading Casablanca and Chandigarh as the results of nuanced dynamic processes of international exchange driven by the engagement and expertise of a new class of design professionals As a dossier of actors alignments and agendas the book contributes to an alternative historiography of post war urbanism and to recent reflections on the impact of transnational practice P 4 of cover
