Change Mummified:

Change Mummified Philip Rosen, 2001 Exploring the modern category of history in relation to film theory film textuality and film history Change Mummified makes a persuasive argument for the centrality of historicity to film as well as the special importance of film in historical culture What do we make of the concern for recovering the past that is consistently manifested in so many influential modes of cinema from Hollywood to documentary and postcolonial film How is film related to the many modern practices that define themselves as configuring pastness in the present such as architectural preservation theme parks and above all professional historical research What is the relation of history in film to other media such as television and digital imaging How does emphasizing the connection between film and modern historicity affect the theorization and historicization of film and modern media culture Pursuing the full implications of film as cultural production Philip Rosen reconceptualizes modern historicity as a combination of characteristic epistemological structures on the one hand and the social imperative to regulate or manage time on the other Emphasizing a fundamental constellation of pursuit of the real indexical signification and the need to control time he interrogates a spectrum of film theory and film texts His argument refocuses the category of temporality for film and cultural theory while rethinking the importance of historicity An original and sustained meditation on the historiographic status of cinematic signs Change Mummified is both an intervention in film and media studies and an argument for the continuing necessity of modern historical thinking in its contradictions

Where Histories Reside Priya Jaikumar, 2019-10-31 In Where Histories Reside Priya Jaikumar examines eight decades of films shot on location in India to show how attending to filmed space reveals alternative timelines and histories of cinema In this bold spatial film historiography Jaikumar outlines factors that shape India's filmed space from state bureaucracies and commercial infrastructures to aesthetic styles and neoliberal policies Whether discussing how educational shorts from Britain and India transform natural landscapes into instructional lessons or how Jean Renoir's The River 1951 presents a universal human condition through the particularities of place Jaikumar demonstrates that the history of filming a location has always been a history of competing assumptions experiences practices and representational regimes In so doing she reveals that addressing the persistent question of what is cinema must account for an aesthetics and politics of space Animation ?

Process, Cognition and Actuality Dan Torre, 2017-08-24 Applies the principles of process philosophy and Deleuzian film aesthetics to animation as a genre and medium

A Grammar of Murder Karla Oeler, 2009-12-15 The dark shadows and offscreen space that force us to imagine violence we cannot see The real slaughter of animals spliced with the fictional killing of men The missing countershot from the murder victim's point of view Such images or absent images Karla Oeler contends distill how the murder scene challenges and changes film Reexamining works by such filmmakers as Renoir Hitchcock Kubrick Jarmusch and Eisenstein Oeler traces the murder scene's intricate connections to the great breakthroughs in the theory and practice of montage and the formulation of the rules and syntax of Hollywood genre She argues that murder plays such a central role in film because it mirrors on multiple levels the act of cinematic representation Death and murder at once eradicate life and call attention to its former existence just as cinema conveys both the reality and the absence of the objects it depicts But murder shares with cinema not only this interplay between presence and absence movement and stillness unlike death killing entails the deliberate reduction of a singular subject to a disposable object Like cinema it involves a crucial choice about what to cut and what to keep

Opening Bazin Dudley Andrew, Herve Joubert-Laurencin, 2011-04 Andr Bazin remains one of the most read most studied and most engaging figures ever to have written about film Fifty years after his death he is still widely recognized as cinema s most significant philosopher critic Always an important presence within cinema theory Bazin has seen a massive resurgence of interest among critics scholars and students now that an electronic archive of his entire critical output has been catalogued Opening Bazin assesses the great critic s influence and legacy with essays from several generations of the very best film scholars Gunning Frodon Margulies Conley MacCabe Narboni and Vernet to name just a few Ultimately these essays reaffirm Bazin s relevance in this new century tracing his lineage debating his aesthetics locating him in the rich cultural moment of postwar France and tracking the effect of his thought around the world

Brutal Vision Karl Schoonover, 2012 How spectacular visions of physical suffering in post World War II Italian neorealist films redefined moviegoing as a form of political action

Spectacle in Classical Cinemas Tom Brown, 2015-08-11 Spectacle is not often considered to be a significant part of the style of classical cinema Indeed some of the most influential accounts of cinematic classicism define it virtually by the supposed absence of spectacle Spectacle in Classical Cinemas Musicality and Historicity in the 1930s brings a fresh perspective on the role of the spectacular in classical sound cinema by focusing on one decade of cinema the 1930s in two modes of filmmaking musical and historical films and in two national cinemas the US and France This not only brings to light the special rhetorical and affective possibilities offered by spectacular images but refines our understanding of what classical cinema is and was
