Cradle to Grave: Life-Course Change in

Modern Sweden Jan O. Jonsson, Colin Mills, 2021-04-14 The empirical study of individuals life course is one of the most promising areas of research within sociology today Increased availability of large scale longitudinal data and improved statistical methods have made it possible to address theoretically relevant questions about events such as entrance into the labour market job mobility divorce and death This book consists of studies capturing the life course from the cradle to the grave The research questions include long term consequences of childhood conditions family formation and school careers work and parental leave gender discrimination in job promotion divorce and occupational career persistence in poverty and the intriguing question of why the highly educated tend to survive everyone else The studies shed light on the relation between family and work on gender inequality social class differences welfare state redistribution and labour market processes They do this in a particular context namely Sweden in the post war period that is during the decades that formed one of the most advanced welfare states in modern history One chapter provides a descriptive account of institutional and life course change in Sweden during that period Most authors use the Swedish level of living surveys a unique data set providing ample opportunity to study social processes in a longitudinal perspective The book will therefore be of relevance to those with interests in the Swedish welfare state as well as those with theoretical and research interests in the reproduction of inequality

Genders in the Life Course Antonella Pinnelli, Filomena Racioppi, Rosella Rettaroli, 2007-09-06 Although both demography and gender relations have been the focus of research for quite some time the intersection of gender studies and demographic analysis is a more recent phenomenon Fortunately gender aspects of demography and demographic aspects of gender are two lines of research that have received increased attention in recent years there is a growing group of researchers active in this area and consequently a growing body of publications of different kinds Despite this books treating the topic of gender and demography in a more comprehensive fashion are rare In fact I can think of few examples since the publication of two edited volumes in the first half of the 1990s namely Women's position and demographic change and Gender and family change in industrialized countries both resulting from the activities of the International Union for the Scientific Study of Population The editors of the current volume are therefore to be congratulated for taking the initiative to produce a much needed volume on gender and demography in developed countries with a focus on Europe The book covers a lot of ground from the age at first intercourse over union formation and union dissolution to excess male mortality and report important findings of empirical research mostly based on comparative data from a number of European countries The source of these comparative data is in most cases the Family and Fertility Surveys FFS carried out in the 1990s

Active and Healthy Aging and Quality of Life: Interventions and Outlook for the Future Yulan Lin, Waqas Sami, Mila Nu Nu Htay, Sudip

Bhattacharya,2024-04-15 The continuous growth of older adult populations as a consequence of demographic changes is a huge challenge To prevent costly and negative impacts effects on the population as a whole it is crucial that societies increase their knowledge of promoting good health among older adults to promote good health and a better quality of life in their later years Active aging is the process of optimizing opportunities for health participation and security in order to enhance quality of life as people age An active and healthy life has remained one of the most important aspirations for all people both young and older adults alike This ambition has become a genuine possibility for many due to a rising life expectancy among people of diverse attributes across the world While celebrating longer life and with more financial security in later life than ever before we need to challenge how these aspirations can be sustained through our own behavioural responses and through public policy institutional reforms and innovations The challenge is to identify recommend and promote strategies and interventions that stimulate and sustain the activity independence and health of people of all ages especially older adults and in the process promote the well being and quality of life of people and make public welfare systems more sustainable
