Change And Development In The Gulf:

Change and Development in the Middle East (Routledge Revivals) Clarke John, Bowen-Jones Howard, 2013-10-14 The Middle East is a region of great traditional diversity which has been characterized by immense political social and economic changes still developing over thirty years after the title's original publication A group of oil rich countries have achieved great political significance and some of the highest per capita incomes in the world Much modern development has been spatially polarized accentuating the concentrations of rapidly growing populations and posing severe problems for planners Cultivation and pastoralism the main traditional activities have often suffered from neglect and insufficient investment and both require re evaluation These are the issues addressed by this volume first published in 1981 which contains a series of overviews and case studies written by present or former members of staff and research students of the Department of Geography in the University of Durham in honour of W B Fisher Change and Development in the Middle East provides an interesting and relevant geographical and demographic analysis of this diverse and volatile region Change and Development in the Gulf A. Abdelkarim, 1999-01-29 Processes of change stagnation and development in the countries of the Gulf Co operation Council are analyzed in this book The contributors show impact of oil revenues on population change and social development and on redefining the socio economic role of the state Oil could open venues for industrialization and development However lack of population policies problems of human resources development the rather slow change in gender relations and in political systems and heavy spending on militarization it is argued could impede development endeavour Bureaucracy and Development in the Arab World Jabbra, 2022-04-25 Social Change and Development, 1993 Port Development Roy Samuel MacElwee, 1926 Applications Received, Telephone and Telegraph Matters. Report United States. Federal Communications Commission, 1934 Resources and Environmental Management for Green Development Fengtai Zhang, Xiaowei Chuai, Lei Gao, 2024-02-09 Resources are the material basis for human development while the environment is the fundamental condition for human development The exploitation and utilization of resources will lead to environmental changes which in return will have an impact on resources At present due to the increase of population and the continuous expansion scale of human production activities how to address the trade off between resources exploitation and environment protection has become an important issue for human sustainable development Green development is a mode of economic growth and social development that emphasizes efficiency harmony and sustainability It can realize the coordination and sustainability among population economy and social development resources and environment and is a promising means to solve the current problems associated with resources and environment Ecological Dimensions for Sustainable Socio Economic Development A. Yáñez-Arancibia, R. Dávalos-Sotelo, J. W. Day, 2014-05-13 This book fills a gap in the literature on environmental sustainability by addressing the topic from the perspective of social and economic development Progress in understanding and achieving sustainability requires the integration of scientific social economic and legal issues Yet progress in understanding and achieving sustainability will only be achieved through integration of scientific social economic and legal aspects A treatise on environmental sustainability should raise the current state of knowledge by proposing and recommending decision making efforts and breaking new ground with agendas aimed for the younger generation These younger scientists will be confronted with future uncertainty related to the set of crises that characterise the 21st Century e g ecological social food energy environmental climatic financial etc Currently there are a number of indicators that demonstrate that ecological conditions are being compromised globally These include reduced primary productivity reduction in biological complexity spreading pollution such as eutrophication ecological degradation in any continental basin coastal sea ecosystem reduction in biodiversity lowered resilience and slow recovery of damaged ecosystems and reduced ecological integrity All of these problems are related to social and economic pressure The challenge for most ecological systems is not only to establish the baseline for current ecosystem conditions but also to explore options for recovery and sustainability The latter involves ecological restoration where ecosystem and environmental services are maintained and enhanced These services are essential to social integration and economic development This book not only introduces a theoretical and conceptual framework for the topic but also analyses the uncertainty for sustainability because of dwindling natural resources It includes contributions providing a basis for public policies case studies integrating concepts and tools for solutions and a set of position papers addressing new agenda topics that will shape the 21st century The book will be useful for researchers professors and students alike as well as for all stakeholders from social economic and academic sectors
