Changing Meanings of Citizenship in Modern China Merle Goldman, Elizabeth J. Perry, 2002-06-30 This collection of essays addresses the meaning and practice of political citizenship in China over the past century raising the question of whether reform initiatives in citizenship imply movement toward increased democratization After slow but steady moves toward a new conception of citizenship before 1949 there was a nearly complete reversal during the Mao regime with a gradual reemergence beginning in the Deng era of concerns with the political rights as well as the duties of citizens The distinguished contributors to this volume address how citizenship has been understood in China from the late imperial era to the present day the processes by which citizenship has been fostered or undermined the influence of the government the different development of citizenship in mainland China and Taiwan and the prospects of strengthening citizens rights in contemporary China Valuable for its century long perspective and for placing the historical patterns of Chinese citizenship within the context of European and American experiences Changing Meanings of Citizenship in Modern China investigates a critical issue for contemporary Chinese society

The Meaning of Citizenship in Contemporary Chinese Society Sicong Chen, 2017-09-13 This book is a direct and empirical response to the mounting official interest in citizenship education increasing dynamics between state and society and growing citizenship awareness and practice in society in contemporary China Placing the focus on society the book investigates the meaning of the Chinese term gongmin equivalent to citizen in non official media discourses and in university students and migrant workers perceptions through the constructed analytical lens of Western citizenship conception By laying out the complex details of how the meaning of the term resembles and deviates in and between collective social discourses and individual citizens understandings with reference to state discourses the book makes clear that there is discrepancy in the meaning of gongmin between state and society and that the meaning varies in contemporary Chinese society Cutting across multiple topics this book is a valuable resource for students and researchers interested in Chinese citizenship East West citizenship citizenship education the media university students and migrant workers in China

Citizenship and Education in Contemporary China Yeow-Tong Chia, Zhenzhou Zhao, 2023-05-31 A key objective of education in China is to cultivate one's moral values with the ultimate objective of becoming fully human Unlike the West which regards moral cultivation as related to but separate from citizenship cultivation East Asia including China views moral and citizenship cultivation as synonymous The essays in this book offer various perspectives on and understandings of Chinese citizenship and education by a group of scholars of Chinese heritage situated inside and outside of China They offer compelling evidence and rich theoretical discussions about the practice of teaching citizenship in the state education the interplay between citizenship and China's cultural and religious traditions and the construction of citizenship from the groups from marginal positions The book uses citizenship as a lens to examine the pressing issues of identity democracy religion and cosmopolitanism and sheds new light on China's ongoing social and educational changes Thinking through citizenship and citizenship education may act as an important driving force to transform the culture and paradigms of governance in China and the new meanings of becoming fully human This book will be of interest to researchers and advanced students of Education Politics Sociology and Public Policy The chapters in this book were originally published in various Routledge journals

Practicing Citizenship in Contemporary China Sophia Woodman,Zhonghua Guo,2020-04-02 This book examines citizenship as practiced in China today from a variety of angles Citizenship in China and elsewhere in the Global South has often been perceived as either a distorted echo of the real democratic version in Europe and North America or an orientalized other that defines what citizenship is not By contrast this book sees Chinese citizenship as an aspect of a connected modernity that is still unfolding The book focuses on three key tensions a state preference for sedentarism and governing citizens in place vs growing mobility sometimes facilitated by the state a perception that state building and development requires a strong state vs ideas and practices of participatory citizenship and submission of the individual to the collective state community village family etc vs the rising salience of conceptions of self development and self making projects Examining manifestations of these tensions can contribute to thinking about citizenship beyond China including the role of the local in forming citizenship orders how individualization works in the absence of liberal individualism and how social citizenship is increasingly becoming a reward to good citizens rather than a mechanism for achieving citizen equality This book was originally published as a Special Issue of the journal Citizenship Studies

Beyond Citizenship: Literacy and Personhood in Everyday China, 1900-1945 Di Luo,2022-09-19 Beyond Citizenship focuses on the role of literacy in building a modern nation state by examining the government provision of adult literacy training in early twentieth century China Based on untapped archives and diaries Di Luo uncovers people s strategic use of literacy and illiteracy in social interactions and explores the impact of daily experiences on the expansion of state power Highlighting interpersonal and intergroup relations Beyond Citizenship suggests a new methodology of studying literacy which foregrounds the agentive role of historical actors and so moves away from a more traditional approach that treats literacy itself as the key factor enabling social change
