Changing Services For Older People The Neighbourhood Support Units Innovation:

Changing Services for Older People Alan Walker, Lorna Warren, 1996 This text presents the findings of a major research project evaluating the outcomes of the Neighbourhood Support Units innovation in Sheffield Key issues raised include the goal to create more flexible tailor made services and the promotion of user and carer responsive forms of provision

Commissioning and Purchasing Terry Bamford, 2013-04-15 This essential guide to commissioning and purchasing in social care provides case studies guidelines and checklists to help readers to assess need develop care plans and select suppliers of care It clearly explains the reasons for the shift to commissioning and purchasing away from direct provision the distinction between commissioning and purchasing how to ensure that the commissioning and purchasing process fully reflects the views of users and carers contracts and tenders costs and prices in relation to providing quality care how safeguards can be built into the commissioning and purchasing process This is an invaluable resource that focuses on the practical skills required to deliver effective care It has been written for social care students frontline staff and their managers to help them through the process

The Anthropology of Welfare Iain Edgar, Andrew Russell, 2002-03-11 The Anthropology of Welfare provides an overview of what anthropology has to offer welfare studies and vice versa Case studies from anthropologists in the field examine different branches of welfare and community care for example Maternity services Children with learning difficulties Children's homes Mothers centres People with HIV Mental health centres Housing Care and provision for the elderly Contributors focus on comparative welfare systems examples are taken from urban and rural areas of the UK USA Sweden Germany Portugal and New Zealand In each case the theoretical and methodological appropriateness of social anthropology for the study of welfare and the insights gained by bringing anthropology and welfare together are examined The Anthropology of Welfare will be essential reading for those studying anthropology social work and social policy and will be of interest to teachers practitioners and researchers in applied social welfare fields

Outcomes of Community Care for Users and Carers Andrew Nocon, Hazel Qureshi, 1996 What effects do community care services have on the people who use them Detailed attempts to measure impacts on service users and their carers have been largely confined to research exercises designed to compare different forms of social care provision In contrast performance measurement by social services has focused on activity indicators inputs and processes rather than outcomes for users The need for a shift of focus within agencies routine practice is being increasingly recognized However the task is not straightforward This book offers some ways forward for people working in agencies delivering social care It examines the meaning of outcomes considers potential service contexts for measuring them and explores service users and carers views It gives an overview of measures already used in research and considers the issues involved in developing methods suitable for practice in relation to the main groups of people receiving community care services
