Chains Of Fortune Linking Women Producers And Workers With Global Markets:

Chains of Fortune Marilyn Carr, 2004 Extrait de la couverture Much has been written about the negative impact of globalisation on the world's poor and especially on women But globalisation also opens up new economic opportunities if poor women producers and workers are enabled to take advantage of them The need for assistance differs between independent producers on the one hand and wage workers in export industries on the other In the former case the need mainly is for increased access to global markets In the latter case the need mainly is for better organizing so as to bargain for better wages and working conditions This edited volume brings together six case studies Three link local producers with global markets Three focus on improving the working conditions of the hundreds of thousands of wage workers in global value chains

Changing Gender Patterns of Work in Global Value Chains Stephanie Barrientos, 2019-05-23 This book focuses on the changing gender patterns of work in a global retail environment associated with the rise of contemporary retail and global sourcing This has affected the working lives of hundreds of millions of workers in high middle and low income countries The growth of contemporary retail has been driven by the commercialised production of many goods previously produced unpaid by women within the home Sourcing is now largely undertaken through global value chains in low or middle income economies using a cheap feminised labour force to produce low price goods As women have been drawn into the labour force households are increasingly dependent on the purchase of food and consumer goods blurring the boundaries between paid and unpaid work This book examines how gendered patterns of work have changed and explores the extent to which global retail opens up new channels to leverage more gender equitable gains in sourcing countries dominance and subordination such as gender and ethnicity as part of a wider project to revitalise class analysis in the study of development problems and experiences Class is conceived as arising out of exploitative social relations of production but is formulated through and expressed by multiple determinations By illuminating the diversity of social formations this book illustrates the depth and complexity present in Marx's method This book was originally published as a special issue of Third World Quarterly

Beginning in the 1980s sub Saharan Africa witnessed a veritable explosion of NGOs and CSOs engaged in efforts to develop the subcontinent Often praised for their commitment flexibility close contact with grassroots movements and marginalized groups these organizations have become the darlings of donors and the UN system During the same period however rural Africa has sunk deeper into poverty The massive NGO engagement appears not to have made any meaningful progress
