them to current policy developments in community responsibility the role of voluntary work and the future of social care

Identifying Essential Elements of Change Marianne Berry, 2007 Children, Changing Families and Welfare

States Jane Lewis, 2008-01-01 As welfare states grow up they begin to think more carefully about their future Jane Lewis is showing them how best to do so This stellar collection of articles by top European scholars combines creative thinking about the new social investment state with impressive empirical research on specific forms of public support for family work Nancy Folbre University of Massachusetts Amherst US The nature of the relationship between children parents and the state has been central to the growth of the modern welfare state and has long been a problem for western liberal democracies Welfare states have undergone profound restructuring over the past two decades and families also have changed in terms of their form and the nature of the contributions that men and women make to them More attention is being paid to children by policymakers but often because of their importance as future citizen workers The book explores the implications of changes to the welfare state for children in a range of countries Children Changing Families and Welfare States examines the implications of social policies for children sets the discussion in the broader context of both family change and welfare state change exploring the nature of the policy debate that has allowed the welfare of the child to come to the fore tackles policies to do with both the care and financial support of children looks at the household level and how children fare when both adult men and women must seek to combine paid and unpaid work and what support is offered by welfare states endeavours to provide a comparative perspective on these issues The contributors have written a book that will be warmly welcomed by scholars and researchers of social policy social work and sociology and students at both the advanced undergraduate and post graduate level Child Welfare Outcome Research in the United States, United Kingdom, and Australia

Anthony N. Maluccio, Frank Ainsworth, June Thoburn, 2000 Ideally there is a close interaction between research and practice in human services and program planning is based on such interaction particularly the findings of outcome research This book reviews the bodies of outcome research about child welfare programs from the United States the United Kingdom and Australia particularly outcomes in relation to service effectiveness duration of child placement permanency planning and child development and functioning The purpose of the book is to give child welfare administrators policymakers practitioners and academics a comprehensive picture of the current state of child welfare knowledge Chapter 1 discusses issues related to carrying out outcome research and describes the different service systems in the three countries Chapter 2 examines outcome research in traditional services such as kinship care family foster care treatment foster care residential group care and adoption Chapter 3 reviews research findings related to outcomes of more recent service initiatives including family preservation family reunification preparation for independent living the Looking After Children administrative materials used in the United Kingdom family group decision making shared family care and wraparound services The book concludes by asserting that there are a number of gaps in the available research including limited comparative studies of the outcomes of such services as adoption family foster care and residential care and limited attention to the dimension of race and ethnicity Recommendations include greater attention to the role of race and ethnicity and more cross national research Appended is an annotated bibliography of texts that consider outcome research in child protective services Contains 399 references KB

Women and Market Societies Barbara Einhorn, Eileen Yeo, 1995 Women and Market Societies explores the problems and possibilities for women which arise from the transition to a market economy in East Asia the dismantling of state socialism in Eastern Europe and the restructuring of the economies and welfare states of the older capitalist market societies in Western Europe Questioning whether the global trend towards market economics will constrain or enhance women's opportunities this innovative interdisciplinary volume also looks at the consequences for women as workers and beyond that to the social and cultural implications A distinguished group of scholars from China Hong Kong South Korea and Europe explores the issues which must be addressed before women can create a more empowering politics Such issues include the continuing tensions between paid work in the market and unpaid work in the family and the extent to which Eastern or Western legislative frameworks providing rights and benefits have eased or exacerbated these tensions The paradoxical effects of modernising housework the power and contestability of global media representations of femininity the experience of building a women's politics around consumption are all themes explored in this book which aims to contribute to an East West dialogue among women

Families in Society, 2009 The Young, the Old, and the State Anneli Anttonen, John Baldock, Jorma Sipilä, 2003 Presents a comparative account of the historic background and current provision of social care services for children and older people in Finland Germany Japan UK and USA Highlight the diversity in the consumption and production of social care Proposes that there are common pressures at work in all industrialized nations driving welfare systems to similar forms of organization and structure which are however mediated by important differences in culture and history

Positive Child Protection Andrew Cooper, 1995 This work argues that in spite of the 1989 Children Act child protection social work in England is still characterized by high professional anxiety political ambiguity and a feeling of stuckness As a result of confusing relationships among the law the citizen social work and the state and also the government's ambivalence toward social intervention in families the authors contend that social work has been bureaucratized social workers have been pilloried in the press and castigated by government and that vulnerable children are no safer while the log jam of unallocated child protection cases has not diminished

Changing Gender Relations, Changing Families Oriel Sullivan, 2006-04-27 It's common knowledge that responsibilities in the home are not divided equally between men and women Feminists bemoan how slowly this gender gap is changing Sociologist Oriel Sullivan however focuses on the neglected topic of the processes of change discussing changing domestic gender practices on many different levels from changes in attitudes about gender equality in the home to the quantitative analysis of change in the domestic division of labor His newly developed theoretical approach connects the wider discussion of gender practices within the home to the interactions and negotiations that individuals engage in on a day to day basis He includes empirical evidence for change presenting findings based upon directly comparable cross national data from the mid 1960s to the late 1990s This book will appeal to readers interested in gender studies sociology and in the changing gender equity of the home Whitaker's Books in Print ,1998 Families and Family Policies in Europe Astrid Pfenning,Thomas Bahle,2000 Comparative family policy studies have flourished in recent years The growing recognition of family policy is related to far reaching changes in family structures since the mid 1960s and to the growth of European welfare states to fiscal and institutional limits With recent welfare state reforms the family gender roles and the social division of labour have become prominent issues This book contributes to comparative family policy studies by a distinct profile Contributions typically include a small number of countries The geographic focus is on Southern European and Scandinavian countries including comparisons to Austria Belgium Britain Germany Ireland and The Netherlands The book combines quantitative and qualitative approaches institutional and historical perspectives Canada's Changing Families Maureen Baker,Vanier Institute of the Family,1994 Family Change and Housing in Post-war Japanese Society Misa Izuhara,2000 Exploring the experiences of older women in post war Japanese society this book analyzes their family relations housing histories and position within welfare systems It highlights a range of issues surrounding the changing role of women in the family and society housing policy and the ageing society The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells,1993
