Changing Lanes In China Foreign Direct Investment Local Governments And Auto Sector Development:

Changing Lanes in China Eric Thun, 2006-01-16 This book addresses two of the most important trends in political economy during the last two decades globalization and decentralization in the context of the world's most rapidly growing economic power China The intent is to provide a better understanding of how local political and economic institutions shape the ability of Chinese state owned firms to utilize foreign direct investment FDI to remake themselves in the transition from inefficient and technologically backward firms into powerful national champions In a global economy the author argues local governments are increasingly the agents of industrial transformation at the level of the firm Local institutions are durable over time and they have important economic consequences Through an analysis of five Chinese regions the treatment seeks to specify the opportunities and constraints that alternative institutional structures create how they change over time and ultimately how they prepare Chinese firms for the challenge of global competition China's Automotive Modernization

G. Chin, 2010-01-29 As a window for understanding the relationship between globalization and the state's pursuit of national industrial development this book examines how and why the Chinese government succeeded in leveraging China's international competitive advantages to modernize the country's automotive industry China's International

Investment Strategy Julien Chaisse, 2019-02-07 Since China adopted its open door policy in 1978 which altered its development strategy from self sufficiency to active participation in the world market its goal has remained unchanged to assist the readjustment of China's economy to coordinate its modernization programs and to improve its quality of life With the 1997 launch of the Going Global policy an outward focus regarding foreign investment was added to circumvent trade barriers and improve the competitiveness of Chinese firms In order to accommodate inward and outward investment China's participation in the international investment regime has underpinned its efforts to join multilateral investment related legal instruments and conclude international investment agreements This collection compiled by award winning scholar Professor Julien Chaisse explores the three distinct tracks of China's investment policy and strategy bilateral agreements including those with the US and the EU regional agreements including the Free Trade Area of the Asia Pacific and global initiatives spear headed by China's presidency of the G20 and its Belt and Road initiative The book's overarching topic is whether these three tracks compete with each other or whether they complement one another a question of profound importance for the country's political and economic future and world investment governance China's Regulatory State

Roselyn Hsueh Romano, 2011-10-15 Today's China is governed by a new economic model that marks a radical break from the Mao and Deng eras it departs fundamentally from both the East Asian developmental state and its own Communist past It has not however adopted a liberal economic model China has retained elements of statist control even though it has liberalized foreign direct investment more than any other developing country in recent years This mode of global economic integration reveals much about China's state capacity and development strategy which is based on retaining government control over critical sectors

while meeting commitments made to the World Trade Organization In China s Regulatory State Roselyn Hsueh demonstrates that China only appears to be a more liberal state even as it introduces competition and devolves economic decisionmaking the state has selectively imposed new regulations at the sectoral level asserting and even tightening control over industry and market development to achieve state goals By investigating in depth how China implemented its economic policies between 1978 and 2010 Hsueh gives the most complete picture yet of China s regulatory state particularly as it has shaped the telecommunications and textiles industries Hsueh contends that a logic of strategic value explains how the state with its different levels of authority and maze of bureaucracies interacts with new economic stakeholders to enhance its control in certain economic sectors while relinquishing control in others Sectoral characteristics determine policy specifics although the organization of institutions and boom bust cycles influence how the state reformulates old rules and creates new ones to maximize benefits and minimize costs after an initial phase of liberalization This pathbreaking analysis of state goals government business relations and methods of governance across industries in China also considers Japan s South Korea s and Taiwan s manifestly different approaches to globalization

Innovation, Economic Development, and Intellectual Property in India and China Kung-Chung Liu,Uday S. Racherla,2019-09-06 This open access book analyses intellectual property codification and innovation governance in the development of six key industries in India and China These industries are reflective of the innovation and economic development of the two economies or of vital importance to them the IT Industry the film industry the pharmaceutical industry plant varieties and food security the automobile industry and peer production and the sharing economy The analysis extends beyond the domain of IP law and includes economics and policy analysis The overarching concern that cuts through all chapters is an inquiry into why certain industries have developed in one country and not in the other including the role that state innovation policy and or IP policy played in such development the nature of the state innovation policy IP policy and whether such policy has been causal facilitating crippling co relational or simply irrelevant The book asks what India and China can learn from each other and whether there is any possibility of synergy The book provides a real life understanding of how IP laws interact with innovation and economic development in the six selected economic sectors in China and India The reader can also draw lessons from the success or failure of these sectors
