Changing Trends In Womens Employment:

Changing Trends in Women's Employment Mira Savara, 1986 Women's Employment in Europe Jill Rubery, Mark Smith, Colette Fagan, 1999 The book aims to provide a systematic and international analysis of key dimensions for understanding women's labour market position and reveals that to assess future trends it is necessary to look beyond the narrow focus of equal opportunities policies to broader issues of labour market conditions regulations and policy developments Women's Employment in a Comparative Perspective Liset Van Dijk, Tanja Van Der Lippe, These comparative studies by internationally known scholars in the United States Hungary Germany and the Netherlands provide a cross national examination of substantially differing circumstances in hours earnings job level childcare availability parental leave and the like of women's employment The book's dual focus on micro and macro approaches clarifies the extent to which these variances can be ascribed to differences in the institutional context of employment or to the individual characteristics of female employees It thereby provides a valuable contribution both to gender studies and to studies on the sociology of work Women's employment changed dramatically during the second half of the twentieth century Countries in the northern hemisphere have faced similar trends in labor and employment yet there are still many contrasts between them when it comes to women's work In this volume women's employment is studied in different institutional structural and social settings with the intention of exploring the causes of the differences and similarities in women's employment in different countries and at different times Three perspectives are used the macro approach which provides a thorough and focused understanding of the influence of the institutional context on women's work the micro approach which gives insight into the employment behavior of individual women who live in the same social or institutional context and the macro micro approach which makes clear the relative importance to women's work of both individual characteristics and institutional context While a good deal of information is available on women's employment a cross national comparison over time has been lacking This book fills that all important niche Women's Employment in a Comparative Perspective thus has a special relevance for economists as well as sociologists and social work specialists Tanja Van der Lippe is assistant professor of sociology at the Research School ICS of Utrecht University the Netherlands Liset Van Dijk is senior researcher at the Netherlands Institute for Health Services Research Nivel Women's Employment in BC: Effects of Government Downsizing and Employment Policy Changes 2001-2004 Sylvia Anne Fuller, 2004 Any errors and the opinions contained in the paper are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect the views of the CCPA Overall the availability and generosity of social supports and entitlements has eroded as the government weakens or eliminates key public services and increasingly emphasizes the necessity of individual self reliance and participation in a de regulated labour market as the only legitimate route to economic security In so doing we consider not only policy changes that directly affect employment regulations and the availability of particular kinds of employment for women such as the loss of public sector jobs and changes to the provincial Employment Standards Act but also changes that alter the conditions under which women access employment such as changes in post secondary education and childcare policies. Higher levels of education are also associated with both higher levels of employment and a smaller gap in men and women's labour force participation rates as documented in Table 3. Women in BC with fewer than eight years of education have only 57 per cent of the employment level of men with the same education while those with an undergraduate degree are employed at 93 per cent of the level of men. As a result the of hospital and long term care beds and funding cuts have eliminated number of low income housekeeping services from the home care services received by the children in the regulated disabled and frail elderly in some areas of the province.
