Change Of Plans Towards A Nonsexist Sustainable City:

Change of Plans Margrit Eichler, 1995 Change of Plans raises questions that are not commonly posed suggests new avenues for thought in city planning and contributes to the growing literature on sustainability by merging it with a feminist approach The book provides a concrete example of a team of academics planners and architects that has struggled to combine an environmental with a non sexist perspective      Urban Affairs Caroline Andrew, Katherine A. Graham, Susan D. Phillips, 2002 Issues of urban policy are increasingly complex and important Whether considered from a social demographic or economic perspective Canada is overwhelmingly an urban nation and healthy prosperous cities are the key to its well being What then is our national policy toward urban affairs In Urban Affairs leading experts in a variety of disciplines explore this question      Healthy Cities Namir Khan, Willem H. Vanderburg, 2001 Modern cities can be designed to constitute a more supportive environment for a great many activities provide a more livable habitat and reduce the burden imposed on the biosphere They can be made healthier in terms of the definition by World Health Organization and more sustainable by means of new and emerging preventive approaches Healthy Cities focuses on those preventive approaches that can make cities healthier and more sustainable This book as well as the two companion volumes Sustainable Energy and Sustainable Production is the result of a twelve year research project carried out at the Center for Technology and Social Development at the University of Toronto The research findings led to the development of a new conceptual framework and strategy aimed at converting technological and economic growth into development that would gradually become more sustainable

Routledge Handbook of Gender and Environment Sherilyn MacGregor, 2017-07-14 The Routledge Handbook of Gender and Environment gathers together state of the art theoretical reflections and empirical research from leading researchers and practitioners working in this transdisciplinary and transnational academic field Over the course of the book these contributors provide critical analyses of the gender dimensions of a wide range of timely and challenging topics from sustainable development and climate change politics to queer ecology and interspecies ethics in the so called Anthropocene Presenting a comprehensive overview of the development of the field from early political critiques of the male domination of women and nature in the 1980s to the sophisticated intersectional and inclusive analyses of the present the volume is divided into four parts Part I Foundations Part II Approaches Part III Politics policy and practice Part IV Futures Comprising chapters written by forty contributors with different perspectives and working in a wide range of research contexts around the world this Handbook will serve as a vital resource for scholars students and practitioners in environmental studies gender studies human geography and the environmental humanities and social sciences more broadly      Toward Sustainable Communities Mark Roseland, Maureen Cureton, Heather Wornell, 1998 Sustainable development Yes But how do we actually do it This completely updated and revised edition of Mark Roseland's classic text is the best resource available for citizens and their governments on how to apply the concept of sustainable development in their communities      Gendering the City Kristine

Sustainability and the Social Sciences Egon Becker, Thomas Jahn, 1999-10 Exploring how the concept of sustainability might be applied in each of the social sciences this book argues that environmental questions will increasingly dominate humanity in the course of the 21st century This holds out the opportunity and practical necessity to stimulate new lines of theoretical development within the social sciences and new forms of intellectual cooperation across them Urban Governance in Canada Katherine A. Graham, Susan D. Phillips, Allan M. Maslove, 1998 Documentation Sur la Recherche Féministe, 1998 The Nature of Cities Michael Bennett, David W. Teague, 1999-10 Cities are often thought to be separate from nature but recent trends in ecocriticism demand that we consider them as part of the total environment This new collection of essays sharpens the focus on the nature of cities by exploring the facets of an urban ecocriticism by reminding city dwellers of their place in ecosystems and by emphasizing the importance of this connection in understanding urban life and culture The Nature of Cities offers the ecological component often missing from cultural analyses of the city and the urban perspective often lacking in environmental approaches to contemporary culture By bridging the historical gap between environmentalism cultural studies and urban experience the book makes a statement of lasting importance to the development of the ecocritical movement Publisher s description      Canadian Cities in Transition Trudi E. Bunting, Pierre Filion, 2000 Canadian Cities in Transition brings together newly commissioned articles in order to provide a detailed overview of recent trends affecting Canadian cities and future policy implications these trends will have on Canadian cities Aimed at students studying urban geography and focusing specifically on the Canadian city it provides the most current research available Divided into five sections national perspectives regional perspectives intra urban perspectives urban functions and social issues and the public sector the book covers a wide range of subjects Starting with the Canadian city in the global context and urbanization in historical perspective it concludes with an examination of issues such as the inner city housing the urban retail landscape and planning and development The second edition is a significant revision from the first with numerous new articles new contributors and a much more closely linked editorial structure The new second edition includes more emphasis on planning on the environment and on urban design as well as more information on the contemporary social and economic transformations which are affecting society as a whole and echoed in cities
