Demokratie Andrei S. Markovits, 2001 Arab and Jewish Immigrants in Latin America Ignacio Klich, Jeff Lesser, 1998 This collection of essays addresses various aspects of Arab and Jewish immigration and acculturation in Latin America The experiences in the region of these two groups have never been the subject of joint and comprehensive scrutiny The volume examines how the Latin American elites who were keen to change their countries ethnic mix felt threatened by the arrival of Arabs and Jews Their arrival was largely unexpected and in some cases frankly undesired and practically banned

br Negotiating national identity was never easy and many of this volume s multidisciplinary cast of authors examine discrimination and prejudice as a component of Arab and Jewish life in the region These cultural economic and political public negotiations left neither side unchanged while Latin American society and post migratory immigrant identities have been in a constant state of flux the elite s desired homogenization of national or cultural identity has been precluded to this day

Deconstructing Self-Determination in International Law Przemysław Tacik, 2023-07-17 The right of peoples to self determination seems well settled and covered extensively in the scholarly record Yet old Trotsky s question of whom is this right and to what haunts the self determination literature Somehow almost every work on it begins with an expression of puzzlement This right turns out to be elusive underdefined in its scope and content paradoxical in almost every aspect This book mobilises all powers of critical legal theory and modern philosophy to take the bull by its horns Instead of ironing out the paradoxes it aims to finally give them a proper explanation based on the concept of exception
