Changing Fields Of Anthropology From Local To Global:

Changing Fields of Anthropology Michael Kearney, 2004-06-10 This book explores major shifts and reorientations in the recent history of American Anthropology reflecting the author's vision of what anthropology is and what it has the potential to become. The book engages three fundamental intellectual political challenges that American anthropology is destined to confront or at its peril avoid becoming more self reflexive achieving theoretical and methodological holism and defense of universal human rights.

Fieldwork in Tourism Michael C. Hall, 2010-10-04 The inherent mobility of tourists and consequent relative ephemerality of contact between the visitor and the visited tourism phenomenon have specific characteristics that challenge the usual fieldwork practices of the social and physical sciences. Such conditions create specific concerns for the tourism researcher in terms of their positionality relationality accessibility ethics reflexivity and methodological appropriateness. Fieldwork in Tourism is the first book to focus on this extremely significant component of contemporary tourist research and provides hands on approaches to conducting tourism fieldwork in a range of settings exploring the methodological considerations and offering strategies to mitigate these. The book also discusses how fieldwork affects researchers personally and what happens to field relationships. Divided into five sections each with an introduction and a guide to further reading the chapters cover the context of fieldwork research relationships politics and power the position of the researcher in the field research methods and processes including virtual fieldwork and the relationships between being a tourist and doing fieldwork. The concluding chapter suggests that the link between tourism and fieldwork perhaps offers greater insights into understanding creative fieldwork than may be imagined. This book incorporates a rich and diverse set of fieldwork experiences insights and reflections on conducting fieldwork in different settings the problems that emerge the solutions that were developed and the realities of being in the field. Fieldwork in Tourism is an essential guide for Tourism higher level students academics and researchers embarking on research in this field.

Memory and Recovery in Times of Crisis Fiona Larkan, Fiona Murphy, 2017-11-09 This book presents a social scientific reading of the challenges of memory and recovery in times of crisis. Drawing on different interpretations of what constitutes crisis this collection uses lenses of economics identity and commemoration to question how memory and recovery is being constituted through larger discourses of political claims of moving forward healing and identity. Memory and Recovery in Times of Crisis examines how memory is dis or re-interred through social processes and further how recovered memories are challenged or legitimized. It also presents a set of questions that will stimulate further reflections on what kind of role understandings of memory of crisis can play in recovery. Given the world we find ourselves living in in 2017 a world subject to multiple intersecting crises how we understand the dynamics of memory and recovery is a pressing issue indeed. This book will appeal to both scholars and students of anthropology and sociology.

Making Sense of the Global Raúl Acosta, Sadaf Rizvi, Ana Santos, 2010 Anthropology is more relevant than ever before to making sense of the constant intercultural encounters taking place around the world Even though the discipline was born out of the need to understand the way humans interact it had for decades been trapped in a counter cultural stance that effectively disarmed it of any direct influence on public affairs Recent global trends however have brought this academic discipline to the attention of governments agencies and social entrepreneurs because of its capacity to create bridges of understanding between people of contrasting cultures This ability is today more necessary than ever before in facing the challenges posed by the shrinking of our world This volume provides reflections on what anthropological research can offer through its oethick analyses We are convinced that ethnographic research can contribute to a better understanding of social phenomena in our global times Methods, Moments, and

Ethnographic Spaces in Asia Nayantara S. Appleton, Caroline Bennett, 2021-04-15 Asia is changing Socio political shifts in the world economy technological advances of monumental scales movements of people and ideas alongside ongoing post colonization projects across the region have created an emerging Asia one confident and assertive of its place in the contemporary geopolitical sphere As political and economic powers reassert Asian sovereignty in opposition to perceived Northern dominance and dramatic and rapid development in the region shift the relationship between the centre and the periphery new renderings and imaginations of hierarchies of identity and power come to the fore This changing environment leads to emerging challenges for anthropologists working in the region both those who have been working there for years and new scholars entering the field This volume considers these changes and the implications of this on our practice By focusing on Asia as a site of enquiry the contributors to this book discuss tensions and opportunities arising in their ethnographic fieldwork in light of a changing Asia Drawing on personal reflections on Asia s global positioning in this contemporary moment the contributors consider how fieldwork is being negotiated within the changing dynamics of anthropology in the region This book then is a discussion on the shifting landscape of field sites and the resultant emerging research methodologies and is aimed at those who are already deeply immersed in fieldwork as well as those who are seeking ways to undertake it Becoming 'Good Muslim' Bulbul Siddiqi, 2017-11-28 The book uses an ethnographic approach to explore why the Tablighi Jamaat movement remains so successful in contemporary times It shows that this success results from the positive image that it cultivates and the systematic preaching activities of Tablighi Jamaat followers and that the organisation s apolitical image the public profile of the ijtema the humbleness of Tablighi followers and the attraction of belonging to the global Tablighi community all help to create a positive image of the Tablighi Jamaat among ordinary Muslims The book also argues that the Tablighi Jamaat remains successful because of its ability to hold its followers within a Tablighi guided life which is perceived as protection against the Western lifestyle Many elements of contemporary Western lifestyle are considered non Islamic and so by clearly defining what is Islamic and non Islamic in modern society the Tablighi Jamaat provides a way in which Muslims can live in the contemporary world but remain good Muslims The Will of the Many Marianne Maeckelbergh, 2009-10-15 Lively account of how people power has shaped British history from

Fischer,2001-12 As ideas goods and people move with increasing ease and speed across national boundaries and geographic distances the economic changes and technological advances that enable this globalization are also paradoxically contributing to the balkanization of states ethnic groups and special interest movements Exploring how this process is playing out in Guatemala this book presents an innovative synthesis of the local and global factors that have led Guatemala s indigenous Maya peoples to assert and defend their cultural identity and distinctiveness within the dominant Hispanic society Drawing on recent theories from cognitive studies interpretive ethnography and political economy Edward F Fischer looks at individual Maya activists and local cultures as well as changing national and international power relations to understand how ethnic identities are constructed and expressed in the modern world At the global level he shows how structural shifts in international relations have opened new venues of ethnic expression for Guatemala s majority Maya population At the local level he examines the processes of identity construction in two K'aqchikel Maya towns Tecpán and Patzún and shows how divergent local norms result in different conceptions and expressions of Mayaness which nonetheless share certain fundamental similarities with the larger pan Maya project. Tying these levels of analysis together Fischer argues that open ended Maya cultural logics condition the ways in which Maya individuals, national leaders and rural masses alike creatively express their identity in a rapidly changing world.

Changing Places William Meverell Loker, 2004. Changing Places describes and analyzes patterns of environmental and social change in a region of rural Honduras over a 15 year period 1983-1998. The people of this region were subject to economic dislocations caused by the construction of a major hydroelectric dam that flooded more than 6 000 hectares of mostly agricultural land. In addition residents have been forced to adapt to broader processes of rapid social and economic change associated with globalization over the same period. These responses include increased rates of employment in maquiladora plants and migration to the U.S. The book examines the environmental consequences of the dam, the response of local people to dam induced changes, the ecological effects of changing land use patterns and the challenges to local livelihoods posed by globalization. Loker looks at the failure of post dam resettlement as well as subsequent environment and development projects in the region and presents an analysis of the role of structural power, social capital and community divisions in frustrating development efforts. Changing Places examines both the social and environmental dimensions of the intersection between the local and the global. The book will be of interest to scholars and professionals in a variety of fields including anthropology, geography, environmental studies, international relations, international development policy, students of globalization and global environmental problems, deforestation, species loss and those interested in Latin America generally and Central America specifically. His multifaceted approach truly captures the story of a community experiencing substantial change.

Introduction to Global Health Promotion Rick S. Zimmerman, Ralph J. DiClemente, Jon K. Andrus, Everold N. Hosein, 2016-05-03. Introduction to Global Health Promotion addresses a breadth and depth of public health topics that students and emerging professionals in the field must understand as the world's burden of disease changes with non communicable diseases on the rise in low and middle income countries as their middle class populations grow. Now more than ever we need to provide health advocacy and intervention to prevent, predict and address emerging global health issues. This new text from the Society for Public Health Education (SOPHE) prepares readers with thorough and thoughtful chapters on global health promotion theories, best practices and perspectives on the future of the field from the individual to the global level. The world's biggest health care challenges including HIV, malaria, heart disease, smoking and violence among others are explored in detail in Introduction to Global Health Promotion. The state of the science including the latest empirical data is distilled into 19 chapters that update readers on the complex issues surrounding a variety of illnesses and conditions and disease epidemics and individual, social, institutional and governmental barriers to preventing them. Expert authors bring to the fore human rights issues new uses of technology and practical application of theory These perspectives along with the book s multidisciplinary approach serve to create a well rounded understanding of global health today Learn more from the Editors of Introduction to Global Health Promotion here Journal of Ecological Anthropology ,2011 Age, Narrative and Migration Katy Gardner,2002-06 Whilst the vast majority of recent research on identity and ethnicity amongst South Asians in Britain has focused upon younger people this book deals with Bengali elders the first generation of migrants from Sylhet in Bangladesh The book describes how many of these elders face the processes of ageing sickness and finally death in a country where they did not expect to stay and where they do not necessarily feel they belong The ways in which they talk about and deal with this and in particular their ambivalence towards Britain and Bangladesh lies at the heart of the book Centrally the book is based around the men and womens life stories In her analysis of these Gardner shows how narratives play an important role in the formation of both collective and individual identity and are key domains for the articulation of gender and age Underlying the stories that people tell and sometimes hidden within their gaps and silences are often other issues and concerns Using particular idioms and narrative devices the elders talk about the contradictions and disjunctions of transmigration their relationship with and sometimes resistance to the British State and what they often present as the breakdown of traditional ways In addition to this the book shows that histories stories and identity are not just narrated through words but also through the body an area rarely theorized in studies of migration Tropical Forests in a Changing Global Context Morgan de Dapper,2005
