Changing Places Flexibility Lifelong Learning And A Learning Society:

Changing Places? Richard Edwards, 1997 This book looks at how the notion of the learning society has developed over the years and how and why flexibility has become a more central concept in much policy and academic debate

Resources in Education, 1998      The Passion to Learn Joan Solomon, 2003-09-02 This inquiry into self study provides fresh insight into the motivation to learn Beginning and ending with comprehensive and stimulating discussions of learning theories it includes fourteen case studies of autodidacticism in informal learning      New Society Models for a New Millennium Michael Kuhn, 2007 Textbook      The Routledge International Encyclopedia of Education Gary McCulloch, David Crook, 2013-11-26 The Routledge International Encyclopedia of Education is a unique and major resource for the field of education It is a comprehensive single volume work arranged alphabetically and comprising around 600 entries The entries range from definitions of key educational concepts and terms to biographies of key educators and specially written substantial essays on major educational topics The volume includes authoritative and critical commentary on historical and contemporary themes examinations of continuities changes and emerging issues and discussions of the educational traditions and features of major countries and continents The following special features are also included Unrivalled coverage of education in a single volume Entries by leading international educational researchers Contributors drawn from all over the globe including Australia Brazil Canada China Finland India Israel Japan New Zealand South Africa the United Kingdom and the United States A distinguished international advisory board Fully cross referenced and indexed Suggestions for further reading Offering insight into the world of education in an interesting informed and sometimes provocative way The Routledge International Encyclopedia of Education is an invaluable work of reference for educators students researchers and policy makers in education and related fields internationally      Re-Reading Education Policies, 2009-01-01 This book collects studies with a critical education policy orientation and presents itself as a handbook of matters of public concern The term critical does not refer to the adoption of a particular theoretical framework or methodology but rather it refers to a very specific ethos or way of relating to the present and the belief that the future should not be the repetition of the past This implies a concern about what is happening in our societies today and what could or should be happening in the future As a consequence the contributors to the book rely on a general notion of public policy that takes on board processes practices and discourses at a variety of levels in diverse governmental and non governmental contexts and considers the relation of policy to power to politics and to social regulation Following the detailed introduction that aims at picturing the landscape of studies with a critical education policy orientation the book presents re readings of six policy challenges globalization knowledge society lifelong learning equality democracy social inclusion accountability control efficiency and teacher professionalism It seeks to contextualise these in relation to issues of current global concern at the start of the 21st century Despite the diversity of approaches this collection of critical education policy studies shares a concern with what could be called the public and its education and represents a snapshot of education policy research at a particular time Planning & Changing, 2000 Rethinking Learning: What Counts as Learning and What Learning Counts Judith Green, Allan Luke, 2006-03-15 The rapid transformations of social economic and cultural worlds of learners in school and nonschool settings that we are facing today are reminiscent of the transformations that accompanied the industrial revolution at the turn of the 20th century Like those at the turn of the 20th century education researchers and their constituencies e g students teachers community members and policy makers are faced with a series of questions How are we to respond to the educational challenges of this new millennium How do we engage with new forms of learning the influence of new media on children s lives changing community dynamics and many long standing and tenacious educational and social problems And how can research and theory constructively and critically engage with the demands and imperatives of government educational and social policies In this book the editors bring together an intergenerational group of researchers who represent both new and long standing perspectives and debates on the shapes definitions and processes of learning in the context of global cultural and economic change International Encyclopedia of Education, 2009-04-17 The field of education has experienced extraordinary technological societal and institutional change in recent years making it one of the most fascinating yet complex fields of study in social science Unequaled in its combination of authoritative scholarship and comprehensive coverage International Encyclopedia of Education Third Edition succeeds two highly successful previous editions 1985 1994 in aiming to encapsulate research in this vibrant field for the twenty first century reader Under development for five years this work encompasses over 1 000 articles across 24 individual areas of coverage and is expected to become the dominant resource in the field Education is a multidisciplinary and international field drawing on a wide range of social sciences and humanities disciplines and this new edition comprehensively matches this diversity The diverse background and multidisciplinary subject coverage of the Editorial Board ensure a balanced and objective academic framework with 1 500 contributors representing over 100 countries capturing a complete portrait of this evolving field A totally new work revamped with a wholly new editorial board structure and brand new list of meta sections and articles Developed by an international panel of editors and authors drawn from senior academia Web enhanced with supplementary multimedia audio and video files hotlinked to relevant references and sources for further study Incorporates ca 1 350 articles with timely coverage of such topics as technology and learning demography and social change globalization and adult learning to name a few Offers two content delivery options print and online the latter of which provides anytime anywhere access for multiple users and superior search functionality via ScienceDirect as well as multimedia content including audio and video files For a Radical Higher Education After Postmodernism Richard K. S. Taylor, Jean Barr, Tom Steele, 2002 This book is a forceful restatement of the classic Left analysis of both the shortcomings and radical potential of higher education In an age of soft focus sound bite New Labour politics such a restatement is badly needed The authors take no prisoners in their critique of postmodernism as an empty and conformist discourse that inhibits radical action Not everyone will agree with this book but everyone should read it Peter Scott Vice Chancellor Kingston University This is a timely and challenging work The contemporary debate about the purposes of higher education needs to be refocused on the transmission of values as well as the utility of skills on its emancipatory as well as its instrumental roles in modern society This book should be read by students and their teachers as well as by policy makers and their pay masters David Watson Director University of Brighton In the age of globalization made real by postmodernist ideology this is a very important and timely contribution to the debate on higher education policy and purposes Adult Education Quarterly Higher education is being transformed not least because of its rapid expansion What should be the priorities objectives and purposes of this new higher education Much current policy development for universities and colleges is implicitly based on postmodernist ideas For a Radical Higher Education explores these postmodernist approaches through social and political theory philosophy cultural studies and feminism and proposes radical alternatives It argues that although postmodernism has provided useful insights and corrections to other frames of reference it leads often to a reactionary and conformist position Its emphases on relativism consensus and apolitical cynicism in relation to all progressive perspectives effectively gives support to those who see higher education increasingly incorporated into technicism and free market cultures In contrast this book argues for a revitalized and radical university characterized by critical sceptical enquiry tolerance and a commitment to humanistic egalitarian politics

Stretching the Academy National Institute of Adult Continuing Education, 2000 These 12 papers support the view that the current general interest in widening participation in higher education in the United Kingdom may provide opportunities to radicalize policies and intervene strategically in institutional practices in ways that help to influence them Introduction Jane Thompson precedes Joining Invading Reconstructing Janice Malcolm which uses the author's personal experience to clarify her concerns about the contemporary practice of widening participation Beyond Rhetoric Mary Stuart highlights one methodology for participation in higher education that grew out of approaches used in third world development and philosophically linked to the ideal of a popular education Peripherality Solidarity and Mutual Learning in the Global Local Development Business Anne Ryan claims educational interventions that celebrate rather than problematize the experiences of those at the periphery are characterized by solidarity and mutual learning Common Goods Tom Steele proposes adult education has a vital role to play in new educational synthesis if a genuinely participatory mass democracy and an active toleration of cultural and sexual difference is to be achieved Concepts of Self Directed Learning in Higher Education Richard Taylor insists the role of the radical educator is to encourage and support the democratic and progressive articulation of self directed learning Social Capital Loraine Blaxter Christina Hughes considers this concept within a frame that extends critical thinking about issues of social inclusion Women's Community Education in Ireland Anne B Ryan Brid Connolly discusses how this thriving system has been considerably shaped by feminist ideas and practice its connection to grass roots organizations and the academy and contribution of theories dealing with complexity contradiction and ambiguity

Friendship Flourishing and Solidarity in Community Based Adult Education Keith Hammond looks at the way Aristotle's practical philosophy informs a community based adult education project in and around Glasgow

Missionary and Other Positions Pat Whaley describes a joint initiative between the University of Durham and the Cleveland Community Enterprise Network to develop an accredited undergraduate program in community development and enterprise

Widening Participation Through Action Learning in the Community ALIC Marjorie Mayo Anan Collymore a dialogue between a project evaluator and a project worker provides project worker's account of ALIC's specific aims and objectives and aims and achievements of ALIC participants

Working with Contradictions in the Struggle for Access John Bamber et al suggests actions and strategies that can make a positive difference in institutional contradictions

Turning the Discourse Jim Crowther et al explores how the tradition of social purpose can survive even thrive in institutions now expected to behave as if they had never had one
