Harvesting the Bay Ray Huling, 2012-07-03 If we mean to change our ways how will we do it? How will we make our food and our system of food production healthy sustainable and secure? How will we make them in a word sane? Who will do this work? Ray Huling knows the hard realities of shellfishing. His father and grandfathers were shellfishermen on Rhode Island's Narragansett Bay laborers in an age old trade. Because he grew up surrounded by quahaugers the industry is in his blood and the drive to keep it sustainable is what makes up his family history. In Harvesting the Bay Huling answers these pressing questions and delivers a moving portrait of the men and women who work the waters of the Atlantic Coast in the harsh environment of the shellfishing industry. Huling argues that any successful sustainable food enterprise will likely resemble shellfishing in Rhode Island an industry that has existed sustainably for over 150 years with its complex system of governance its fierce and obsessive workforce and its conflicts within communities and between generations. This thought provoking book sets the complexities of sustainable food production against a heartwarming story of one family's enduring years of work on the seas.

The Oxford Companion to Food Alan Davidson, 2014-08-21 the best food reference work ever to appear in the English language read it and be dazzled. Bee Wilson. New Statesman. First published in 1999 the ground breaking Oxford Companion to Food was an immediate success and won prizes and accolades around the world. Its blend of serious food history culinary expertise and entertaining serendipity was and remains unique. Interest in food cooking and the culture surrounding food has grown enormously in the intervening period as has the study of food and food history. University departments international societies and academic journals have sprung up dedicated to exploring the meaning of food in the daily lives of people around the world alongside an ever increasing number of articles books programmes and websites in the general media devoted to the discussion of food making the Oxford Companion to Food more relevant than ever. Already a food writing classic this Companion combines an exhaustive catalogue of foods be they biscuits named after battles divas or revolutionaries body parts from nose to tail toe to cerebellum or breads from the steppes of Asia or the well built ovens of the Mediterranean with a richly allusive commentary on the culture of food expressed in literature and cookery books or as dishes peculiar to a country or community. While building on the Companion's existing strengths Tom Jaine has taken the opportunity to update the text and alert readers to new perspectives in food.

studies There is new coverage of attitudes to food consumption production and perception such as food and genetics food and sociology and obesity New entries include terms such as convenience foods drugs and food Ethiopia leftovers medicine and food pasta and many more There are also new entries on important personalities who are of special significance within the world of food among them Clarence Birdseye Henri Nestl and Louis Pasteur In its new edition the Companion maintains its place as the foremost food reference resource for study and home use
