Class, Power, and Agrarian Change Jonathan Pincus, 1996 This study examines patterns of class structure production relations and capital accumulation in three West Java villages It explores the hidden assumptions underlying conventional theories of agrarian change and demonstrates the importance of class structure and class power in shaping patterns of change at the village level Topics include the methodology of measuring class differentiation changes in labour market institutions and real wages and strategies of capital accumulation pursued by village elites

Land and Development in Indonesia John F. McCarthy, Kathryn Robinson, 2016-05-18 Indonesia was founded on the ideal of the Sovereignty of the People which suggests the pre eminence of people s rights to access use and control land to support their livelihoods Yet many questions remain unresolved How can the state ensure access to land for agriculture and housing while also supporting land acquisition for investment in industry and infrastructure What is to be done about indigenous rights Do registration and titling provide solutions Is the land reform agenda legislated but never implemented still relevant How should the land questions affecting Indonesia s disappearing forests be resolved The contributors to this volume assess progress on these issues through case studies from across the archipelago from large scale land acquisitions in Papua to asset ownership in the villages of Sulawesi and Java to tenure conflicts associated with the oil palm and mining booms in Kalimantan Sulawesi and Sumatra What are the prospects for the people s sovereignty in regard to land

Capitalism and Agrarian Change Muchtar Habibi, 2022-11-17 Small scale agricultural producers in the peripheral world are often condescendingly assumed to be a single social class the peasantry to be pitted against the state or corporation This book challenges this rather idealistic view by demonstrating that under current capitalist social relations competition efficiency and productivity and profit maximisation these agricultural producers have been differentiated into different agrarian classes by exploitation By comparing two different contexts of local agrarian change in Indonesia rice cultivation in Java and oil palm in Sumatra this book exposes the different class locations of the agrarian classes among petty agricultural producers and the class relations between them These are often inextricably linked to gender clanship and generational issues The power of class dynamics crucially shapes how agricultural production in both rice and oil palm is organised The share received by different agrarian classes from the production site then prominently shapes the different nature of class reproduction for each agrarian class This analysis demonstrates that the different agrarian classes possess different capacities and responses in their relation to the state or corporations Any real emancipation attempt in the Indonesian countryside and beyond must start from a proper understanding of these class dynamics This book marks a significant contribution to the literature on agrarian change the political economy of development rural development and Marxist political economy Fortress Farming Jeff

Neilson,2025-05-15 Fortress Farming identifies in Indonesia s rural coffee growing regions an alternative livelihood strategy that is reshaping relationships with land and informing Indonesia s agrarian transition Jeff Neilson presents fortress farming households as ones that are reluctant to embrace productivity maximizing agriculture even as they interact with commodity markets and powerful downstream companies Rather these households tenaciously maintain access to land as a last defense against insecurity in a precarious global economy all the while actively tapping into off farm income sources Fortress farming confounds assumptions that the development process entails an inevitable transition away from the land and into city based manufacturing Shifting away from production to take a fuller view of rural Indonesian coffee growing communities Fortress Farming explores how and why defensive farming strategies have emerged and what these tendencies mean for our understanding of agrarian transition in late industrializing countries in the early twenty first century Neilson posits that late industrializing countries may never undergo a full agrarian transition In the alternative livelihood practice of fortress farming we see a way that local social institutions can resist or at least modify the productive forces of capitalist agriculture

Poverty Dynamics Tony Addison,David Hulme,Ravi Kanbur,2009-01-22 This book looks at poverty dynamics or how individual experiences of poverty change over time It includes work from anthropologists economists sociologists political scientists combines qualitative quantitative research approaches to help us understand of why some people remain poor while others escape World Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology Abstracts ,1996 Activists in Transition Thushara Dibley,Michele Ford,2019-12-15 Activists in Transition examines the relationship between social movements and democratization in Indonesia Collectively progressive social movements have played a critical role over in ensuring that different groups of citizens can engage directly in and benefit from the political process in a way that was not possible under authoritarianism However their individual roles have been different with some playing a decisive role in the destabilization of the regime and others serving as bell weathers of the advancement or otherwise of Indonesia s democracy in the decades since Equally important democratization has affected social movements differently depending on the form taken by each movement during the New Order period The book assesses the contribution that nine progressive social movements have made to the democratization of Indonesia since the late 1980s and how in turn each of those movements has been influenced by democratization Assembling Women Teri L. Caraway,2007 Despite the massive influx of women into the labor force as a result of globalization the gender inequalities at work have remained largely unchanged This book addresses two related questions What has prompted the feminization of manufacturing work in developing countries and why has it failed to significantly erode gender inequalities at work Teri L Caraway offers case studies and in depth analysis of employment changes in Indonesia combined with cross national data to show that the feminization of the workplace produced by industrialization policies has reconfigured and reproduced rather than overturned gender divisions of labor at work Caraway challenges the conventional wisdom that export oriented industrialization and women s cheap labor are the driving forces behind feminization Instead she argues the answers can be found in weak unions and current social practice Caraway employs information about a wide range of industries capital intensive male dominated non export firms as well as female dominated labor intensive export oriented industries in arriving at her conclusions Her findings will prove discouraging to anyone who hopes that globalization has become a positive force in improving the lives of women workers Caraway s multilevel methodology for analyzing changes in gendered patterns of employment and her introduction of gendered discourses of work as a major explanatory variable will make Assembling Women a valuable resource for women s studies scholars development economists political scientists and sociologists as well as all with an interest in Southeast Asian Studies and labor and industrial relations

Why Agriculture Productivity Falls Rashed Al Mahmud Titumir, 2023-06-15 Why Agriculture Productivity Falls The Political Economy of Agrarian Transition in Developing Countries offers a new explanation for the decline in agricultural productivity in developing countries Transcending the conventional approaches to understanding productivity using agricultural inputs and factors of production this work brings in the role of formal and informal institutions that govern transactions property rights and accumulation This more robust methodology leads to a comprehensive well balanced lens to perceive agrarian transition in developing countries It argues that the existing process of accumulation has resulted in unsustainable agriculture because of market failures the result of asymmetries of power diseconomies of scale and unstable property rights The book covers the historical shifts in land relations productivity and class relations that have led to present day challenges in sustainability The result is arrested productivity growth Agrarian transition should be understood in the context of the wider economic development in society including how political settlement and primitive accumulation inhibited the kind of property rights that encourage growth Why Agriculture Productivity Falls is a much needed corrective to the traditional understanding because before we can increase productivity we must understand the root causes of those challenges

Good Times and Bad Times in Rural Java Jan Breman, Gunawan Wiradi, 2002 The causes of the Asian economic crisis have been the subject of fierce debates among economists yet little is known about the impact on employment and well being In Indonesia the worst affected country the malaise turned into a political and societal upheaval which brought an end to the New Order regime Based on anthropological fieldwork in two villages along the coast of West Java the monograph discusses the repercussions for work and welfare in the rural hinterland

The Agrarian Question and the Institutionalization of Groundwater Exchange in Gujarat, India Navroz Kersi Dubash, 1998

Revisiting Rural Places Jonathan Rigg, Peter Vandergeest, 2012 In Revisiting Rural Places scholars return to sites of their earlier research in Southeast Asia to examine how the rapid pace of change in the countryside affected places spaces and people that they originally studied decades ago Each of the 14 core chapters is organized around a change that based on broader trends the authors did not anticipate a new longhouse in Sarawak the urban forests of Java the assertion of an ethnic minority identity in Northern Thailand the re shaping of class relations and identities in the Philippines and the uncontested sell off of farmland to cacao entrepreneurs in Sulawesi These outcomes pose a challenge to conventional understandings of how the countryside is being re shaped and to what effect The accounts in this volume map out diverse pathways to poverty or prosperity Families who seemed trapped in poverty decades ago have prospered owing to non farm and educational opportunities Others have unexpectedly been thrust into relative deprivation by industrial agriculture rural industrialization or destructive natural resource extraction The breadth of the material makes this unique and exceptionally rich account of rural change a valuable classroom tool as well as an important source of information for a broad spectrum of institutions and other stakeholders from the World Bank to NGOs and rural activists

Cocoa Farmers of Southern Ghana, The Tsutomu Takane, 2002-03 Describes how non price factors such as land tenure systems and gender relations influence the production incentives of individual farmers Considers also the effect of higher real producer prices

Powers of Exclusion Derek Hall, Philip Hirsch, Tania Li, 2011-08-31 Questions of who can access land and who is excluded from it underlie many recent social and political conflicts in Southeast Asia Powers of Exclusion examines the key processes through which shifts in land relations are taking place notably state land allocation and provision of property rights the dramatic expansion of areas zoned for conservation booms in the production of export oriented crops the conversion of farmland to post agrarian uses intimate exclusions involving kin and co villagers and mobilizations around land framed in terms of identity and belonging In case studies drawn from seven countries the authors find that four powers of exclusion regulation the market force and legitimation have combined to shape land relations in new and often surprising ways Land debates are often presented as a conflict between market oriented land use with full private property rights on the one side and equitable access production for subsistence and respect for custom on the other The authors step back from these debates to point out that any productive use of land requires the exclusion of some potential users and that most projects for transforming land relations are thus accompanied by painful dilemmas Rather than counterposing exclusion to inclusion the book argues that attention must be paid to who is excluded how why and with what consequences Powers of Exclusion is a path breaking book that draws on insights from multiple disciplines to map out the new contours of struggles for land in Southeast Asia The volume provides a framework for analyzing the dilemmas of land relations across the Global South and beyond

Civil Society and Political Change in Asia Muthiah Alagappa, 2004 A systematic investigation of the connection between civil society and political change in Asia change toward open participatory and accountable politics Its findings suggest that the link between a vibrant civil society and democracy is indeterminate certain civil society organizations support democracy others could undermine it
