The Latin American Voter Ryan E Carlin,Matthew M Singer,Elizabeth J Zechmeister,2015-07-21 In this volume experts on Latin American public opinion and political behavior employ region wide public opinion studies elite surveys experiments and advanced statistical methods to reach several key conclusions about voting behavior in the region s emerging democracies In Latin America to varying degrees the average voter grounds his or her decision in factors identified in classic models of voter choice Individuals are motivated to go to the polls and select elected officials on the basis of class religion gender ethnicity and other demographic factors substantive political connections including partisanship left right stances and policy preferences and politician performance in areas like the economy corruption and crime Yet evidence from Latin America shows that the determinants of voter choice cannot be properly understood without reference to context the substance specific cleavages campaigns performance and the structure fragmentation and polarization that characterize the political environment Voting behavior reflects the relative youth and fluidity of the region s party systems as parties emerge and splinter to a far greater degree than in long standing party systems Consequently explanations of voter choice centered around country differences stand on equal footing to explanations focused on individual level factors
